Halls Teem

The halls in the building rarely stand quiet and empty.

It has been said that young people today are apathetic. When considered against the "I don't care" attitude, students here seem to disprove this hypothesis. Numerous activities take up a student's extra time and many are involved. Sports for both boys and girls demand dedication from students, for much after-school time is spent practising and playing. School publications offer other realms with which to get involved. Band and chorus, too, give students an opportunity to develop musical talents.

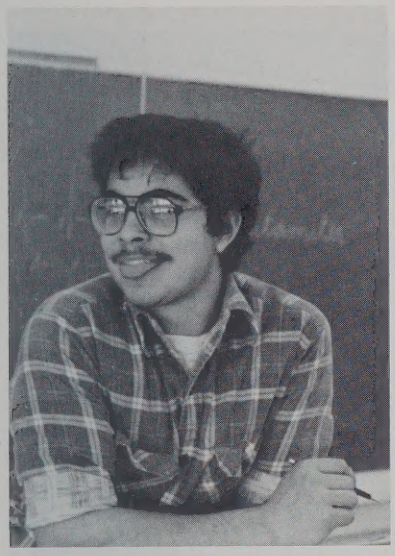
With Students

Expressing his opinion, Sam Ruggiero lets his classmates know how he feels.



Practicing on the weight machine, Christy Fratz tones her muscles in preparation for playing in girls sports.

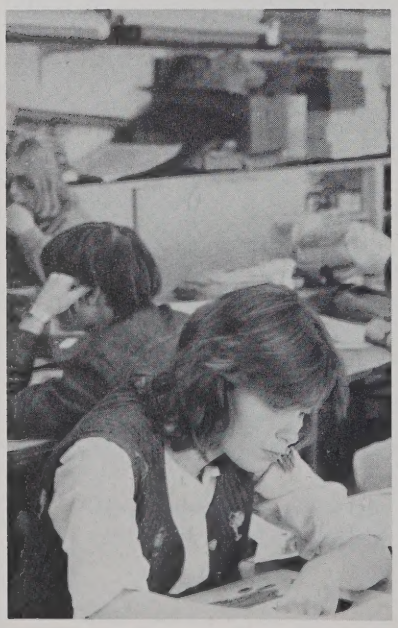
Participating in an extra in-school activity offered to art students, Brian Wachter, Tom Wenzel, and Tim Dyche, try their skills at painting in a Watercolor Workshop.

At the senior class party, Sheera Brandes samples the class cake.

Students

Studying modern dance for the first time, Janey Elliot and Karen Ross spend physical education class time learning techniques.

Students care about activities that are school oriented. This was evident in the number of students enrolled in a wide range of activities. Activities not only included extra-curricular activities such as sports, but they also included co-curricular involvements, such as school publications. Since school activities depend on student interest and involvement, activities have become non-existent in some cases. Here, activities have flourished in student participation.



Using the skills and patience that characterizes her work, Tracy Dyche sketches an art project using chalk.

Preparing to send the Viking to be printed, class members Kathy Baker, Anita Zehr, Julie Warnick and Fred Fox proofread the paper.

Active In All Areas

Considering new ideas, Student Council members meet in room 210 to decide what is best for the whole student body.

Practicing for their up-coming concert, the chorus sings selections from Godspell.

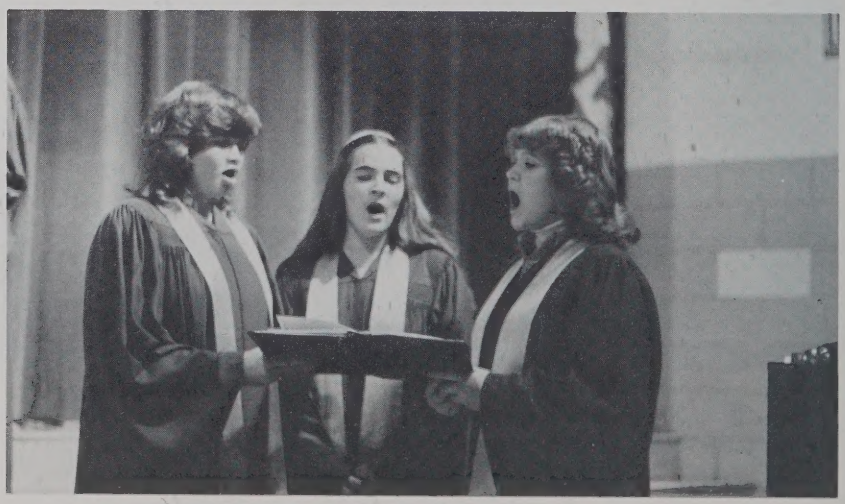
Members of the clarinet section, Sherry Golden, Kathy Baker, Cathy Wheeler and Glenda Lininger, practice for the Meyersdale parade.

Students Get Involved Through Building School Spirit

Getting involved, Diane Hetrick and Ginny O'Leary participate in class while learning about childbirth.

Students found themselves, time after time, taken up in numerous activities and rushed for time. They constantly saw themselves hurrying to complete plans for their organizational activities and pressing for time to aid others in theirs. No one needed to ask them if they cared: the evidence of this statement was in their work. Yes, some people here at Northern still cared!

Preparing for the Kings Dominion band trip, Floyd Detrick, Dwylin Miller, and Glenda Lininger get active.



Becoming involved in choral music, Rita Kolb, Julia Brenneman, and Sheila Wagner sing a madrigal from the annual Christmas Concert.

The candidates were all nervously awaiting the portion of the dance when the Snowball Queen would be announced.

The cafeteria was romantically decorated with snowflakes, crepe paper, and silk roses, in crystal vases. The stage was set in a winter wonderland.

The moment arrived. The candidates all walked on to the stage; each holding her breath and clinging to her escort. With a gasp from the onlookers, Mr. Kenneth Bittinger crowned Debbie Wagner Snowball Queen!

Athletes Are Supported And Psyched By

To the amusement of all, Sherry Kolbfleish delivers the punch-line motion to the football skit.

The Brass section merrily toots out a tune and frolics with the fight song.

After performing, Drill Team Members, Tracy Griffith, Pam Broom, Libby McCrobie and Karen Ross show relief.

Student Body At Pep Rallies

Striving for perfection, Co-captain Rosie Wiley and Captain Debbie Wagner, show the varsity squad how to do it right.

To the delight of many students and for the support of various athletes, the cheerleaders, drill team and band performed skits, cheers, routines, and songs filled with the intention of lifting the teams to victory.

A football pep rally was held against Southern with a skit by the cheerleaders poking fun at the teams habits.

A Girls' Varsity pep rally for volleyball was held to boost our team for districts.

A wrestling pep rally for the grapplers was in honor of the Southern match.

Firing up the football team, the cheerleaders humorously mimic the team's exercising.

Throwing herself into it, Kim Habel performs to "Hit Me With Your Best Shot."

Ramona Yoder Presides Over County

The Autumn Glory Court greets crowds of onlookers enthusiastically as they ride on this year's float provided by Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce.

Band members, under the leadership of a new drum major, Amy Wellborn, attempt to keep faces fresh and lines straight as they march in the two hour float parade.

October arrived in all its festive colors, bringing Garrett County's renowned Autumn Glory Celebration.

This year's court was headed by Ramona Yoder and Fred Fox. The princess' and their escorts were; maid of honor Debbie Selby escorted by Lowell Yoder, 12th grade princess Rosie Wiley escorted by Stanley Eggleston, 11th grade princess Sherri Golden escorted by Scott Graham, 10th grade princess Lisa Zuckerman escorted by Jeff Graham, 9th grade princess Karen Fink escorted by Mike Doerr.

The week's activities consisted of Firemen's Parade with the princesses & queen but no escorts, Saturday's Float parade provided by Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce. New additions this year were Shaw & Sons Amusements in Millers Market parking lot.

Preparing for the firemen's parade, senior princess, Rosie Wiley, and the queen, Ramona Yoder, wait patiently for a firetruck.

Festival Of Fall - Autumn Glory

The 1981 Autumn Glory court was headed by Ramona Yoder and Fred Fox.

The band members get in step and lift heads high as they march past the judges.

Clowns, a fascination for both young and old, sold balloons and other toys.

Annual Talent Show Complete

In a throwback to the Fifties, the "Soul Family" spoofs commercials.

With his rendition of "Czardas", Jesse Yoder wins first place.

Comically done, Fred Fox and Jana Harshman rise in the morning and rid themselves of body odor.

Belting out "Babe", Mary Uphold ties for third place.

With Éntourage Of Acts

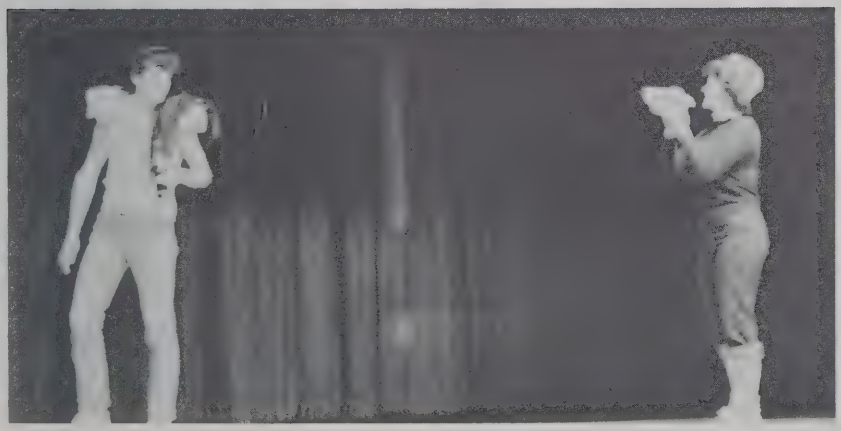
Her face awashed with a tender memory, Debbie Wagner emotionally sings "Leather and Lace" with accompaniment provided by Cris Selby and Laura Stanton; her performance captures second place.

Expressing their various talents, members of the student body entered the annual talent show headed by Lucille Sines.

Musical acts received all the honors, with Jesse Yoder winning first place, and Debbie Wagner winning second place. Amy Wellborn and Anita Zehr tied with Marcy Uphole for third place.

Other acts included comedy skits, other musicians, and commercials.

Roustingly jamming out "My Heart Overflows With Love" and "Blessed is the Man", Tom and Jeff Fife are applauded with such vigour they capture students' choice.



"Mean Brad Green" Yoder awards "Young Debbie" Wagner for her unselfish offering of a Coke.

A flute solo, "Gavotte" by Amy Wellborn, accompanied by Anita Zehr tied for third place.

Tracy Finzel Reigns Over Homecoming Festivities

Under the new advisor, the chorus expands its duties and joins the band in performing the "National Anthem."

Displayed in the showcase was the crown for the queen.

Last year's queen, Tracy Sisler, and this years queen, Tracy Finzel, share an embrace while Danny Davis, the queens escort looks on.

After a week organized to arouse excitement. Homecoming arrived with much anticipation. Halftime entertainment was provided by the band and drill team along with the crowning of the queen. Candidates were Tammy Beachy, Schrilla Beachy, Tracy Finzel, Donna Ringer, Debbie Wagner, and Rosie Wiley. Tracy Finzel was crowned queen by Mr. Kenneth Bittinger and presented with mums and a hug by Tracy Sisler, 1980 Homecoming queen. A dance sponsored by the varsity cheerleaders followed.

the varsity cheerleaders in honor of Homecoming.

The stands were packed with the band and many supportive fans.

Year Is Sprinkled With Various

During a spirit-building assembly, President of the Student Council, George Belch, gives the first speech of his year in office.

In an effort to build school spirit and to familiarize students with school and various optional organizations, the Student Council organized the first assembly of the year.

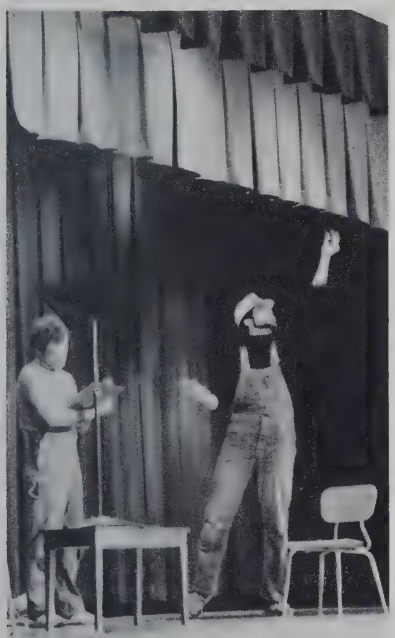
Other assemblies included a liquid gas presentaion shown to the 11th and 12th graders, various excerpts by Mark Twain which the 9th and 10th graders attended, and sponsored by the Student Council, a program interpreting dance through the ages entitled "Gotta Dance."

Performing for the amusement of all, the Cumberland Cuties take on Northern Husky Coaches and alumni players in a fast pace game of basketball.

With his head in a cloud, Bobby Lipscomb gets a close-up view of liquid air.

Exciting Assemblies

Reaching for an unseen object, two actors from the Antreburem portray various characters from Mark Twain's novels.



A demonstration of liquid air proves to be an exciting assembly topic for the juniors and seniors.

The 1950's era is displayed choreographically in the GOTTA DANCE! program.

The Husky team plans their strategy against the unbeatable "Cumberland Cuties."

Snowball Dance And Magazine

Posing together, the 1982 Snowball court consists of Carissa Selby and Greg McKenzie, Rosie Wiley and Danny Ganoe, queen Debbie Wagner and Lowell Yoder, Laura Stanton and John Swauger and Jeff Bernard with Liz Sisler.

Their true personalities show through as the reality of winning dawns on Debbie Wagner and Lowell Yoder.

Having been voted for by the student body, Rosie Wiley became the senior princess and Debbie Wagner was named queen with escorts Danny Ganoe and Lowell Yoder.

Campaign Produce Exuberant Winners

As an annual event, Mr. Hannah is introduced to the student body, and he begins to spark Northern students into selling hard.

Captain and Co-captain Fred Fox and Linda Yunker color in the climb towards the goal determined by the school's population.

As a reward, the student body received ice cream cones.

Among the activities throughout the year which provided students with a chance to achieve victory were the Snowball Dance and the Magazine Campaign.

The Snowball Dance was held January 9 in the cafetorium, and was sponsored by the Lettermen. Debbie Wagner was crowned Snowball queen.

The Magazine Campaign began with Mr. Hannah's explanation of details and view of the prizes which could be attained. The actual selling lasted two weeks.

Getting acquainted, Mr. Hannah and our campaign manager, Fred Fox, take time to express a feeling of togetherness essential for strong leadership.

Winterfest Gives Skiers A Chance

Crowned Winterfest Queen, Jana Harshman, escorted by Jeff Frost, enjoyed an action-packed weekend at the Wisp Ski Area.

Winterfest '82 was held at the Wisp Ski Area. Reigning over the weekend as queen was Jana Harshman, escorted by Jeff Frost.

The Scholastic Ski Races for area high schools was held on Friday, March 19. Southern High School again captured the trophy, but Northern's victory was B.J. Wachter's getting "best time of the day," not an easy feat.

Other Northern victors included Trudy Carpenter, Libby McCrobie, Connie Stewart, Barb Taylor, Michele Clutter, and Middle School members Rodney Friend and Jenny Thoman.

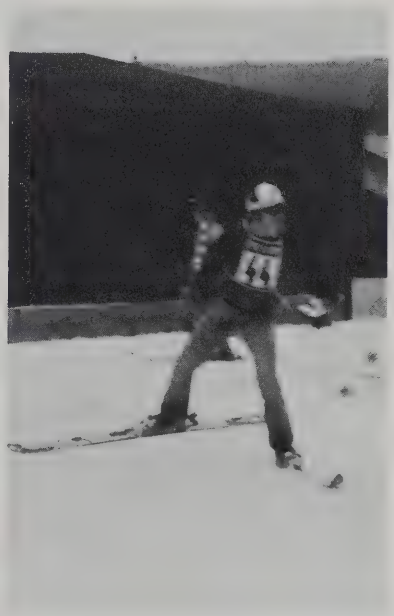
The year of hard work paid off as the Northern victors accepted their ribbons and trophies.

To Execute Their Skills

In her last year of Scholastic racing, Trudy Carpenter takes first place for Senior girls.

Successful over her opponents, Libby McCrobie receives her second first place trophy.

Connie Stewart swooshed down the slopes for a first place.



Jumping up to the finish line, Eugene Cervi joins other onlookers.

The Northern Ski team gather together as they await the finish and the results of the Scholastic races.

Sports Enthusiasts Suffer Initiation

After a morning of being teased, John Savage and Scott Rodeheaver enjoy a hearty lunch to regain strength.

Robin Christ dresses immaturely to join Girls' Varsity.

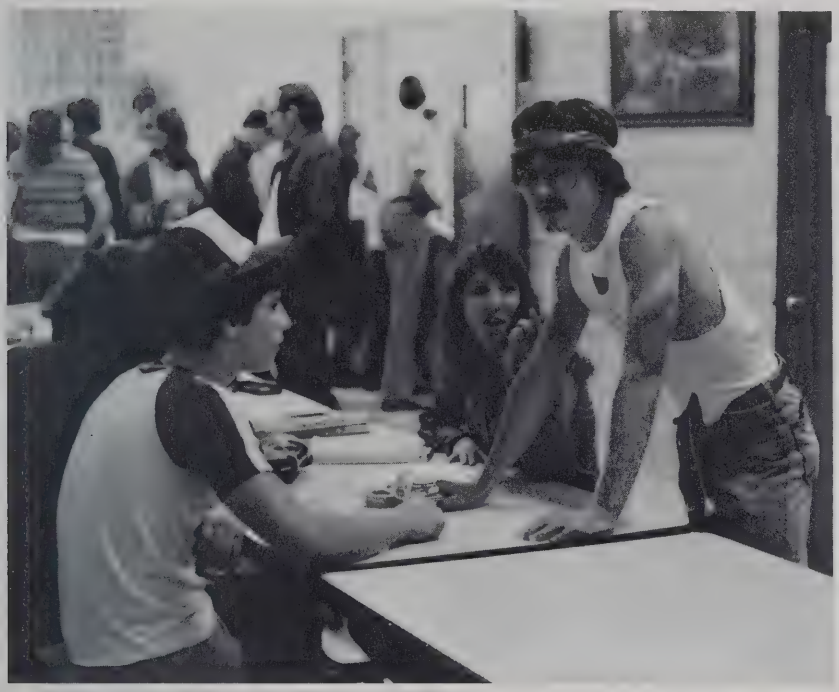
To be a tough Huskie you must first be a puppy as shown here by John Swauger, Bill Uphold, Scott Rodeheaver, and John Savage.

In order to become a Letterman or a member of The Girls' Varsity Club, new members must suffer the embarrassments and degradation of various activities as dictated to them by previously initiated members. Such activities were, for lettermen; dressing like bums, wearing a suit, being a slave to other members, and becoming "Huskies". The Girls' Varsity had to dress like babies, wear dresses, sweat suits, and baseball caps on designated days.

As the week ended, these now initiated members breathed a sigh of relief secure in the knowledge that in future years they could enjoy the ritual of initiation without participating.

To Join Varsity Clubs

Carrying out an order to his master, slave John Savage gives Scott Graham his lunch.



With teddy close by, Carol Wilt looks ahead to laughing at next years' members.

New Lettermen gather in front of a sign made by the Varsity Cheerleaders.

Career Day Provides Career Opportunities

Attending a seminar on fashion designing, Sherri Golden, Cindy Friend, Anita Zehr, and Jana Harshman listen intently to the methods of designing clothes.

Career Day, held at G.C.C., provided juniors and seniors from both Northern and Southern with information about career opportunities. College representatives from area colleges were present to recruit students into their schools and also to answer any questions of students about a particular college or field of interest. Students signed up for special interest seminars which were held simultaneously with the college demonstrations. In the afternoon students relaxed in the courtyard, entertained by the music of Keith Roberts. A karate demonstration was held in the gym later in the afternoon.

In a friendly game during the lunch break in the courtyard, a group of Northern chicken fighters prepare to attack the chicken fighters from Southern.

Temporary marriage partners for the Marriage Seminar, George Belch and wife Jana Harshman fill out a questionnaire on their habits.

Achievements Honored At Awards Assembly

For long hours of hard practice and dedication, Bev Miller, Scott Graham, Christy Fratz, Linda Yunker, and Carol Wilt are recognized for lettering in three varsity sports.

Proud of her academic achievements, Felicity Kaiser accepts the Garrett National Bank Scholarship.

For outstanding citizenship in his community, Spencer Schlosnagle receives the Elbert Buckel Award, a fifty dollar savings bond, presented by Mr. Robert Yunker.

Juniors' Hard Work Provides

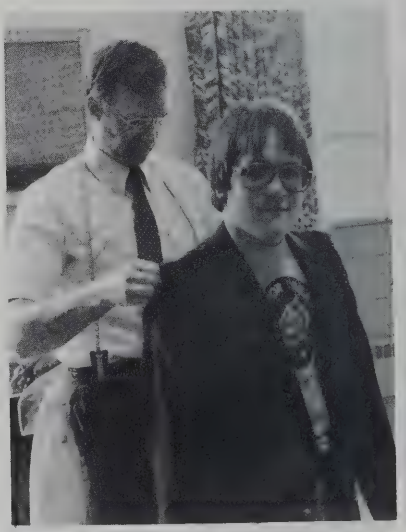
The president of the Senior Class, Fred Fox, and his date, Kim Wilburn, observe the affair from their position at the head table.

The queen, Rosie Wiley, with her escort, Danny Ganoe, dances to the music of the band.

In a last chance to claim royalty, candidates for prom queen wait breathlessly to hear the winner.

As emcee of the occasion, Christy Fratz announces dinner.

Danny Davis begins to lack oxygen due to a tight bowtie.



Being fit for a tuxedo, Dwylin Miller orders from Crestmonts.

Seniors With Fantasyland Prom

In front of the castle surrounded by angel hair, Rosie Wiley proudly displays her crown and bouquet.

Prom night arrived on a rainy May 8. Provided by the junior class, the theme was "This One's For You," and the McHenry House was decorated with blue, silver and purple. A castle, which was used as a background for pictures, and unicorns made the atmosphere all the more mystical.

Following a smorgasbord dinner, zany awards were given to Greg Durst, Kim Fike, George Belch, and Tim Yunker.

Music was provided by the band which played during the coronation of Rosie Wiley as prom queen, escorted by Danny Ganoe. Her court consisted of Glenda Lininger, escorted by Dave Ward, Donna Ringer, escorted by Robert McKenzie, Kim Wilburn, escorted by Fred Fox, Lisa Moore, escorted by George Dailey, Lisa Glotfelty, escorted by Kevin Bender, and Tracey Griffith, escorted by Jay Humberson.

President of the Junior Class, Brad Yoder, and his date, Sherri Golden, attend their first prom.

The queen and her court dance the queen's dance.

Graduation Provides A Scattering

Spending their last minutes in fun, Senior boys, Stan Eggleston, Tim Yunker, Lowell Yoder, Mark Holtschneider, Fred Fox and George Belch bid adieu to N.H.S.

Graduation day finally arrives and Steve Rodeheaver puts on his gown for the occasion.

The Chorus, accompanied by Marcella Yoder, sing various tunes, providing the graduates their last chance to be included in a performance.

Above, Center: Straightening tassels and primping hair, Cindy Green, Fran Durst, Randy Brenneman and Lisa Glotfelty prepare to line up to receive diplomas.

Of Smiles And Tears

Valedictorian, Fred Fox, so received the award for the Outstanding Student and a special award for never missing a day of school in 12 years.

The class of 1982, clad in dark blue and gold, was graduated May 23, 1982. They were academically led by Fred Fox, valedictorian. Jesse Yoder was salutatorian.

Awards were presented by Mr. Herbert Harman, the Board of Education president, who was serving in his last year on the Board. Fred Fox and Roxanne Zuckerman, chosen by the faculty, received the Outstanding Student Awards. The "I Dare You" awards were given to Spencer Schlosnagle and Roxane Zuckerman.

Senior chorus members joined the rest of the chorus in singing "Graduation Night" and "I May Never Pass This Way Again."

A kiss, along with the Senior President's mantle, is passed on to Linda Yunker by Fred Fox.

The proud parents of Fred Fox, Jane and Wilbur Fox, attend graduation to hear their son's valedictory speech.

Supporting Fans Gives Spirit

In an attempt to psyche the fans, Cris Selby and Debbie Wagner help cheer the basketball players to a victory.

Amid the packed bleachers Libby McCrobie and Jeff Frost celebrate Northern's victory over Southern in a home wrestling match.

Without missing many football games, Mrs. Vonda Yunker's Husky, Nikki, faithfully shows his support.

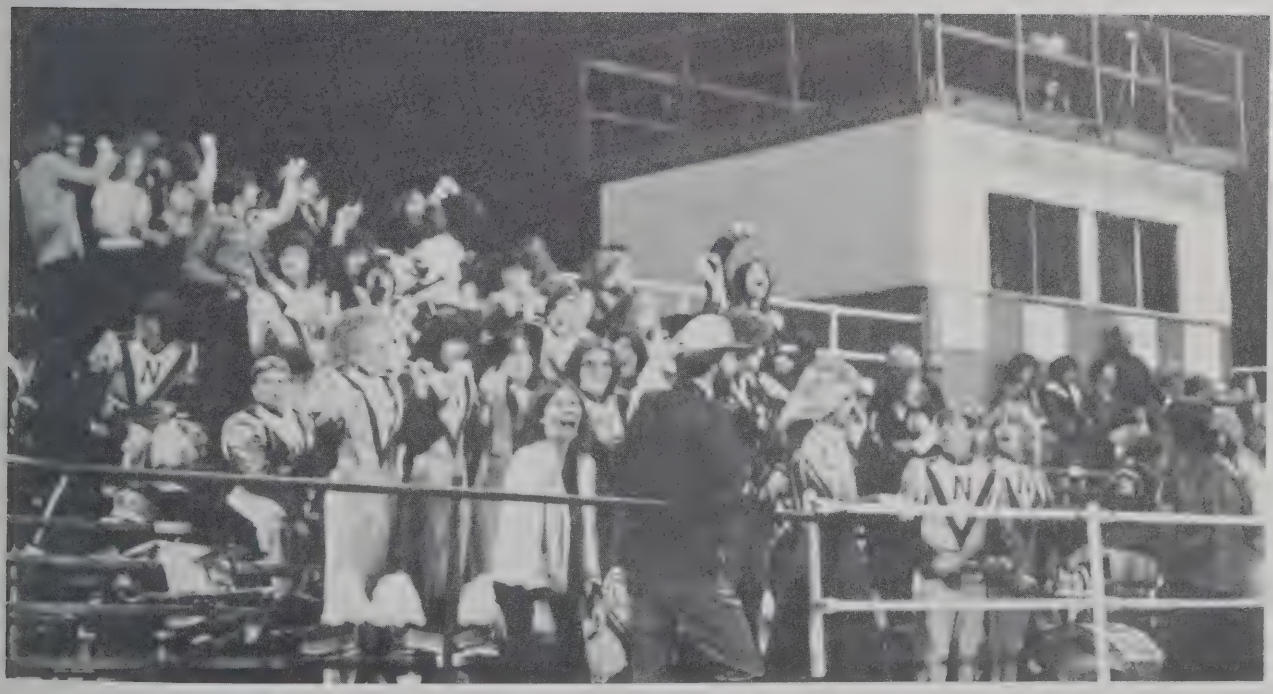
The last game for senior varsity cheerleaders proves to be a close game when the Huskies miss one last chance to tromp Southern.

Showing her love and support, George Belch's little sister gives him a Coke and a smile.

To Husky Players

Taking time from her busy schedule, Cris Selby attends the Southern-Northern baseball game at Southern.

With her mouth in its usual position, Linda Yunker gives time and energetic support to root the Husky matmen on to a victory over the arch-rivals of Southern.



Pulling all their forces together, the band, under new direction, supports the Husky Footballers.

New Faces Enter Student Council Offices

Listening intently to the candidates' speeches, the students ponder their choices.

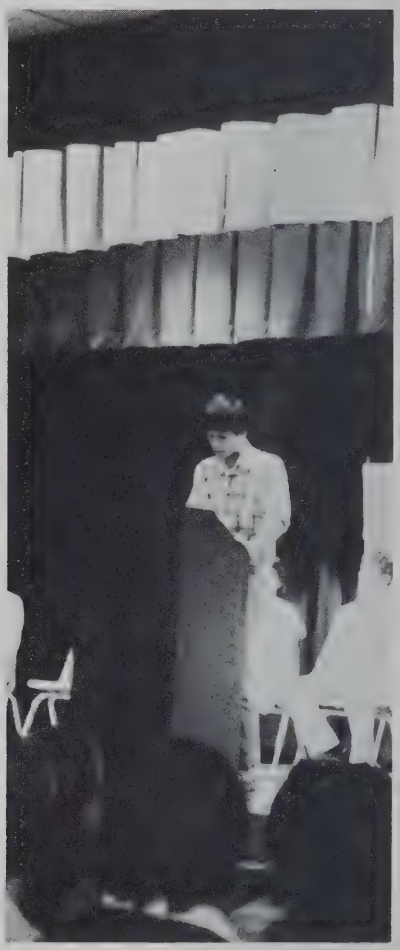
With the loss of the Student Council officers, new ones had to be voted in. An assembly was held in order that the candidates could explain to the student body why each felt he was the proper candidate.

The newly elected president was Scott Graham, whose opponent had been Laura Stanton. Vice President became Lisa Zuckerman, who was closely challenged by Sherri Golden. Elected secretary was Anita Zehr. Also running was Marcie Upole. Cindy Friend became treasurer, with Autumn Frazee as an opponent.

With enthusiasm and sincerity, Sherri Golden speaks frankly about what she has to offer N.H.S.

Anita Zehr delivers a speech which later captures her the secretary's position.

To land the office of president, Scott Graham sells his platform to the students.



In hopes of being elected president, Laura Stanton offers her ideas on school government.

The situation looked bleak for the Huskies. They had just dropped a match to Bruce and now they were behind in their present match against Southern. It was a do-or-die situation for the Husky volleyballers. They had to attempt a comeback.

The Southern players and fans were yelling and screaming. This threw a spark into the Huskies, and they started to come alive. Someone started yelling, "MAD DOG! MAD DOG!" Soon the gym was filled with the cries of the volleyball team. "MAD DOG, RUFF RUFF! MAD DOG, RUFF RUFF!" A fresh wave of enthusiasm swept over the volleyballers as the second game began.

One point after another was scored by the Huskies. They soon found themselves the winners of the second game by a score of 15-1. The match was tied at one game apiece. A third game had to be played to decide who would win the match. The Lady Huskies were psyched out by now. They knew that they would win. Again they scored one point after another. After the fifteenth point was scored, the volleyballers hugged eath other with joy. This time they had beaten Southern by the score of 15-3. The Lady Huskies had won the county championship.

Volleyball Team Places Fourth

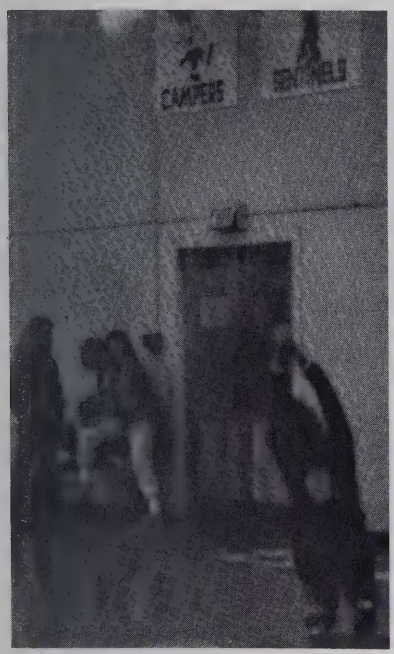
Returning a serve, Vicki Kamp starts an offensive attack.

In District Playoffs Again

Showing great hustle, Christy Fratz saves the wildly hit ball.



To score a point, Bev Miller executes a spike.

Using a bump to pass the ball, Donna Ringer sets up Christy Fratz.

The fifth season for volleyball at Northern was a victorious one. Summer volleyball camp at G.C.C. and the experience of eight returning girls were the key factors leading to a 8-5 record and a berth in the district playoffs. This year the lady Huskies went to districts in third place. At districts, three losses to Mt. Savage, Valley, and Bruce dropped the Huskies to fourth place. Again this year, the volleyball team won the county championship.

Controversy Topples Northern's 6-4

The 1981 Husky football team jumped to early success by beating Bruce 6-0 in overtime, then routing Tygart Valley 47-14 and shutting out Valley in the homecoming contest 34-0; all taking place on The Husky gridiron. After the third game, controversy struck the Husky squad as a player was found ineligible, resulting in the forfeiture of the first three games. The Huskies then dropped the next three contests, including a 7-3 decision in the hands of the District I Class C Champion, Beall. Despite a record now showing 0-6, the Husky defense held tough, allowing an average of only one touchdown per game for their opponents, while the Husky offense stacked up 94 points in the final four games.

Back Row: R.J. Wolf, Don Jenkins, Bill Uphold, Phil Carr, John Swauger, Troy Margroff, Rob Carr, Mike Eggleston, Scott Graham, Randy Yommer, Luke Maust. Second Row: Jeff Graham, Roy Miller, Dave Georg, Buddy Friend, Brent Fratz, Junior Guthrie, Kevin McKenzie, Greg Diehl, Scott Rodeheaver, Scott Watkins, Jim Swauger, John Savage. Front Row: Coach Speicher, Bob Lipscomb, Mike Bradshaw, Mike Robinson, Stanley Eggleston, Ken Butler, Coach Settle.

The second string maintains a 34-0 lead while the starters take a well-deserved rest after routing Valley in the homecoming contest.

Season To 3-7

Being pursued by the Bruce defense, Rob Carr leads the Northern aerial attack in hopes of gaining a first down.

On fourth down and long yardage, Dave Georg shows perfect form as he punts the pigskin deep into Bruce territory.

In his fifth year as head mentor of the Husky football team, Coach Jack Settle paces the sideline before the Bruce Game in which the Huskies were victors in overtime, 6-0.

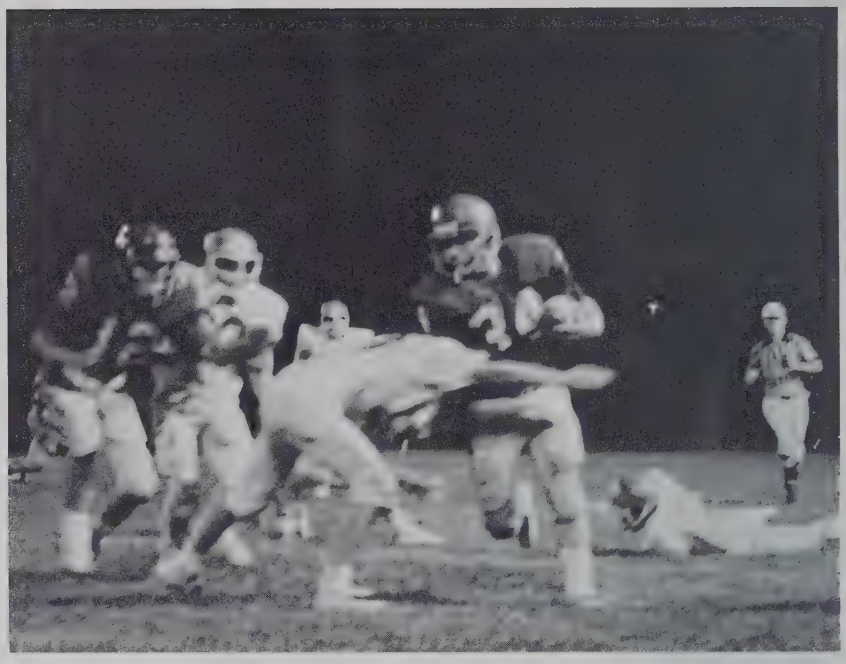
Victory Over Valley, First

In a grimacing attempt to out-muscle his Tygart Valley opponent, Randy Yommer bolts determinedly toward the husky goal.



The 1981 Husky Team had its ups and downs during the controversy-struck season. Although recording a 3-7 record on paper, the Huskies recorded a record of 6-4 on the field. One of the major ups of the season came when Northern defeated Valley during Homecoming for the first time in 13 years. Then the arch rival Southern Rams came to Husky turf for the last game of the season and nipped the Huskies 20-18. Stanley Eggleston, Mike Robinson, and Rob Carr each made the Highland Football All-Star Conference Team for their skills on the field.

The Northern passing attack is temporarily halted as Scott Graham finds the Valley pass rush too much to hurl above.

In the torturous battle against Bruce, Rob Carr strives toward the first down marker as Phil Carr paves the way.

After gaining two points for a takedown, Merv Kamp attempts to defeat his Frankfort opponent.

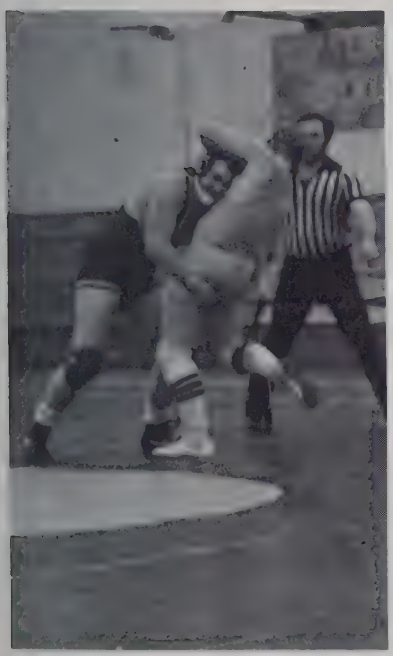
Planning his strategy, Ron Kamp rides out his foe.

Records Broken

Looking with the referee to see if both shoulders are on the mat, Darren Kamp hopes for a pin.

Returning as head coach for the wrestling squad was Jack Lear. He lead the Husky grapplers to a 7-5 season.

Five wrestling records were broken by Senior George Belch. He set the records of the most career duel-season wins with 43, most pins in one season with 16, most pins with 64, most wins with 98, and the most team points with 241.



Eventually pinning his man for his first win, Luke Maust demonstrates a takedown.

While his opponent tries to wiggle free, Greg McKenzie maintains his advantage.

Wrestlers Place High

Using a firm grip to hold his opponent in a cradle, Howard Finzel strives for a pin as the referee looks on.

Struggling to resist his Southern opponent, George Walker desperately attempts to rise.

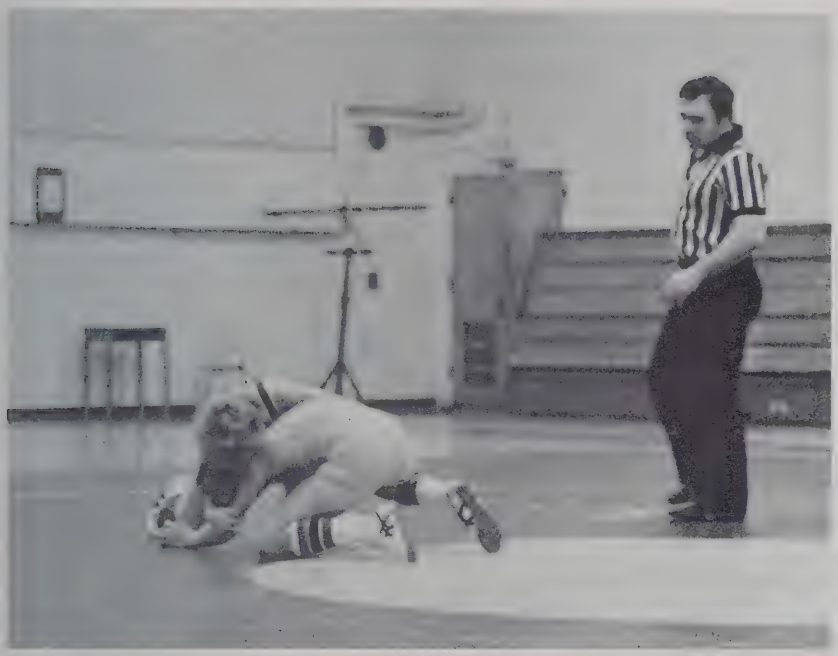
In Many Tournaments

While anticipating a pin, Dean Brinegar keeps his opponent under control.



The Husky grapplers showed that they were an experienced team by placing high in many tournaments. In the Christmas Wrestling Tournament the team as a whole took second place. Merv Kamp, George Belch, and Bobby Lipscomb placed first. George Belch captured first in the Fort Hill Tournament. In the Bi-county tournament George Belch and Darren Kamp placed first, while many other wrestlers also placed high. In the Regionals George Belch took first place in his weight class and went on to gain third place in the State Wrestling Tournament.

Straining his muscles to overpower his opponent, George Belch waits for the referee to signify a pin.

Even With Losing Record,

Bev Miller, Linda Yunker, Tammy Swauger, Amy Wellborn, Anita Zehr, Robin Ghrist, Carol Wilt, Dove Wassel, Donna Ringer, Vicki McCrobie, Christy Fratz, and Coach Gale Wengard.

The Girls' Varsity Basketball team had a rough season this year. Even though the lady Huskies had a losing record, improvement was seen at the end of the year. Towards the end, more of the first string started to score in double figures. The highlights of the season was the two victories over Oldtown. Senior Donna Ringer and Junior Linda Yunker were chosen to play in both the Gold Metal and the Knights of Columbus basketball tournaments.

Using a jump shot, Carol Wilt tries to add another two points to the score.

The Ninth Grade Basketball team had a 4-7 record. The team was coached by Dave Bender. Because there were only seven members of the team, the freshman scrimmaged against the Girls' Basketball team. The practices gave both teams playing experience and provided tough competition for each other. Brent Beachy was the only freshman who played on both the Ninth Grade and the J.V. Basketball teams.

Showing good form, Brent Beachy uses a jump shot to score.

3-13 Final Record

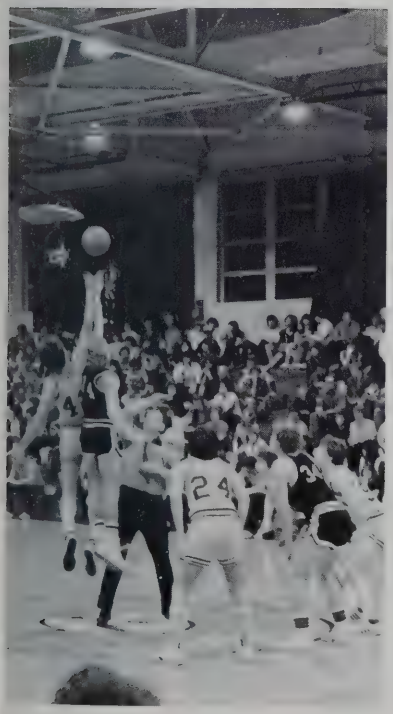
Experience Shows In Final Record

Kneeling: Fred Fox, Lowell Yoder. Standing: Scott Graham, Rich Humberson, Mark Holtschneider, George Dailey, Bradley Yoder, Stan Eggleston, Dave Pickeral, Tim Yunker, Coach Harvey Speicher.



Out jumping his Valley opponent, Brad Yoder attempts to tip the ball to a team-mate.

While resting before a foul shot, Brad Yoder looks to the bench for instructions.

The basis for the 1981-82 boys varsity basketball team was the six seniors who formed the base of the squad. They provided the leadership and experience which sparked their winning season. The team had a dependable second string which also contributed to the victorious season. The Husky offense was strong, but the team was mainly characterized by its strong defense. The squad set a new record for defense by allowing only a forty-eight point average per game to their opponents.

Husky Cagers Record Fourth

A rebound seems close at hand, as Brad Yoder springs off the Alleghany floor and George Dailey looks on.

In the waining moments of the Valley game, Coach Harvey Speicher sets up a last second play in hopes of gaining a victory.

Exhibiting perfect form on his jump shot, George Dailey adds two to the Husky score.

Most Wins In School's History

Senior team members. Kneeling: George Dailey, Stan Eggleston. Standing: Fred Fox, Mark Holtschneider, Tim Yunker, Lowell Yoder.

In two games the boy's Varsity Basketball team won the Bruce Christmas Basketball Tournament. The Huskies beat the Mt. Savage Indians to qualify for the tournament championship against host Bruce. The championship game was an exciting one, as both teams took the lead many times. In the end, however, the Huskies were victorious. Brad Yoder was chosen as the Most Valuable Player of the tournament.

Because the squad had a good record, they made it to the District playoffs. The Huskies advanced by beating Beall, but they were beaten by one point by Valley.

Using a delay tactic, George Dailey and Brad Yoder attempt to hold the ball for a last shot.

Proper defensive triangles are displayed as George Dailey and Brad Yoder hem in their Valley opponent.

With his great passing ability, Tim Yunker starts the offensive play.

Girls Place Third

Holding her bat high like a club, Christy Fratz plans to attack the next pitch.

Taunting the catcher in hopes of a wild throw to second base, Linda Yunker shows her base running skills in an attempt to advance to the next base.

Standing in the back of the batter's box to wait for the pitch, Bev Miller is ready to get a base hit.

In District Playoffs

To get the batter out, Kim Buckel throws a strike while Bev Miller and Lani Dailey wait to catch a hit ball.

Listening intently on third base, Liz Sisler receives instructions from Coach Yunker.

Running as quickly as she can, Scheree Savage adds another run to the score.

The 1982 Girls' Softball Team had a victorious record this year. This year's record had been the third winning record since the softball team's short four year history. Six returning starters and the help of assistant coach, Bob Yunker, were the key factors to the winning record. The Huskies started off on the wrong foot by dropping their first three games. The team got back on the right track by winning their next three games. At the end of the regular season, the Huskies 8-6 record was good enough to gain them a third place berth in the district playoffs. They played against arch-rival Southern but were defeated in a close game.

Expressing their joy, Lani Dailey, Karen Durst, and Sharon Hare celebrate the team's victory over Calvary Christian Academy.

Eyeing the situation, Kathy Baker prepares to steal third base.

Keeping her eye on the ball, Liz Sisler lets a high pitch pass by.

Two Seniors Lead The Young Team

Providing experience and leadership for the young team are seniors Tim Yunker and Fred Fox.

Snagging the throw from the catcher in an attempt to tag the base runner out, Phil Carr covers second base.

Young Team Gains

Making a fine defensive play, Phil Carr shows his flexibility by running backwards to catch a fly ball.

Using his body as a shield, Scott Graham knocks down the ball.

Running quickly around the bases, Lamar Beiler and Fred Fox both score a run from a base hit.

Taking a long stride towards home plate, Talan King pitches a strike.

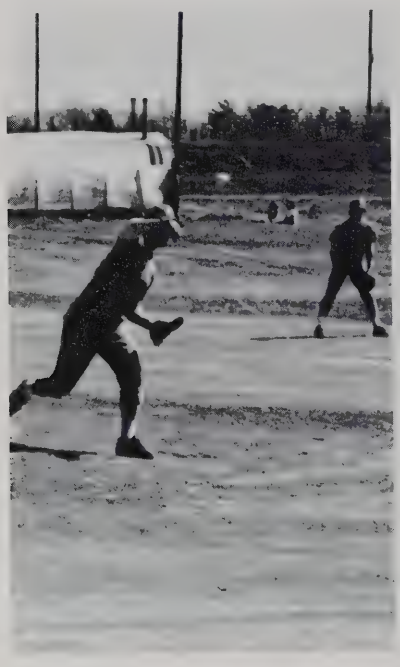
Valuable Experience

Chosen by his teammates as the Most Valuable Player on the team, Tim Yunker reaches out to meet the ball to get the runner out.

With a mighty swing, Greg Diehl hits a long base hit in the outfield.

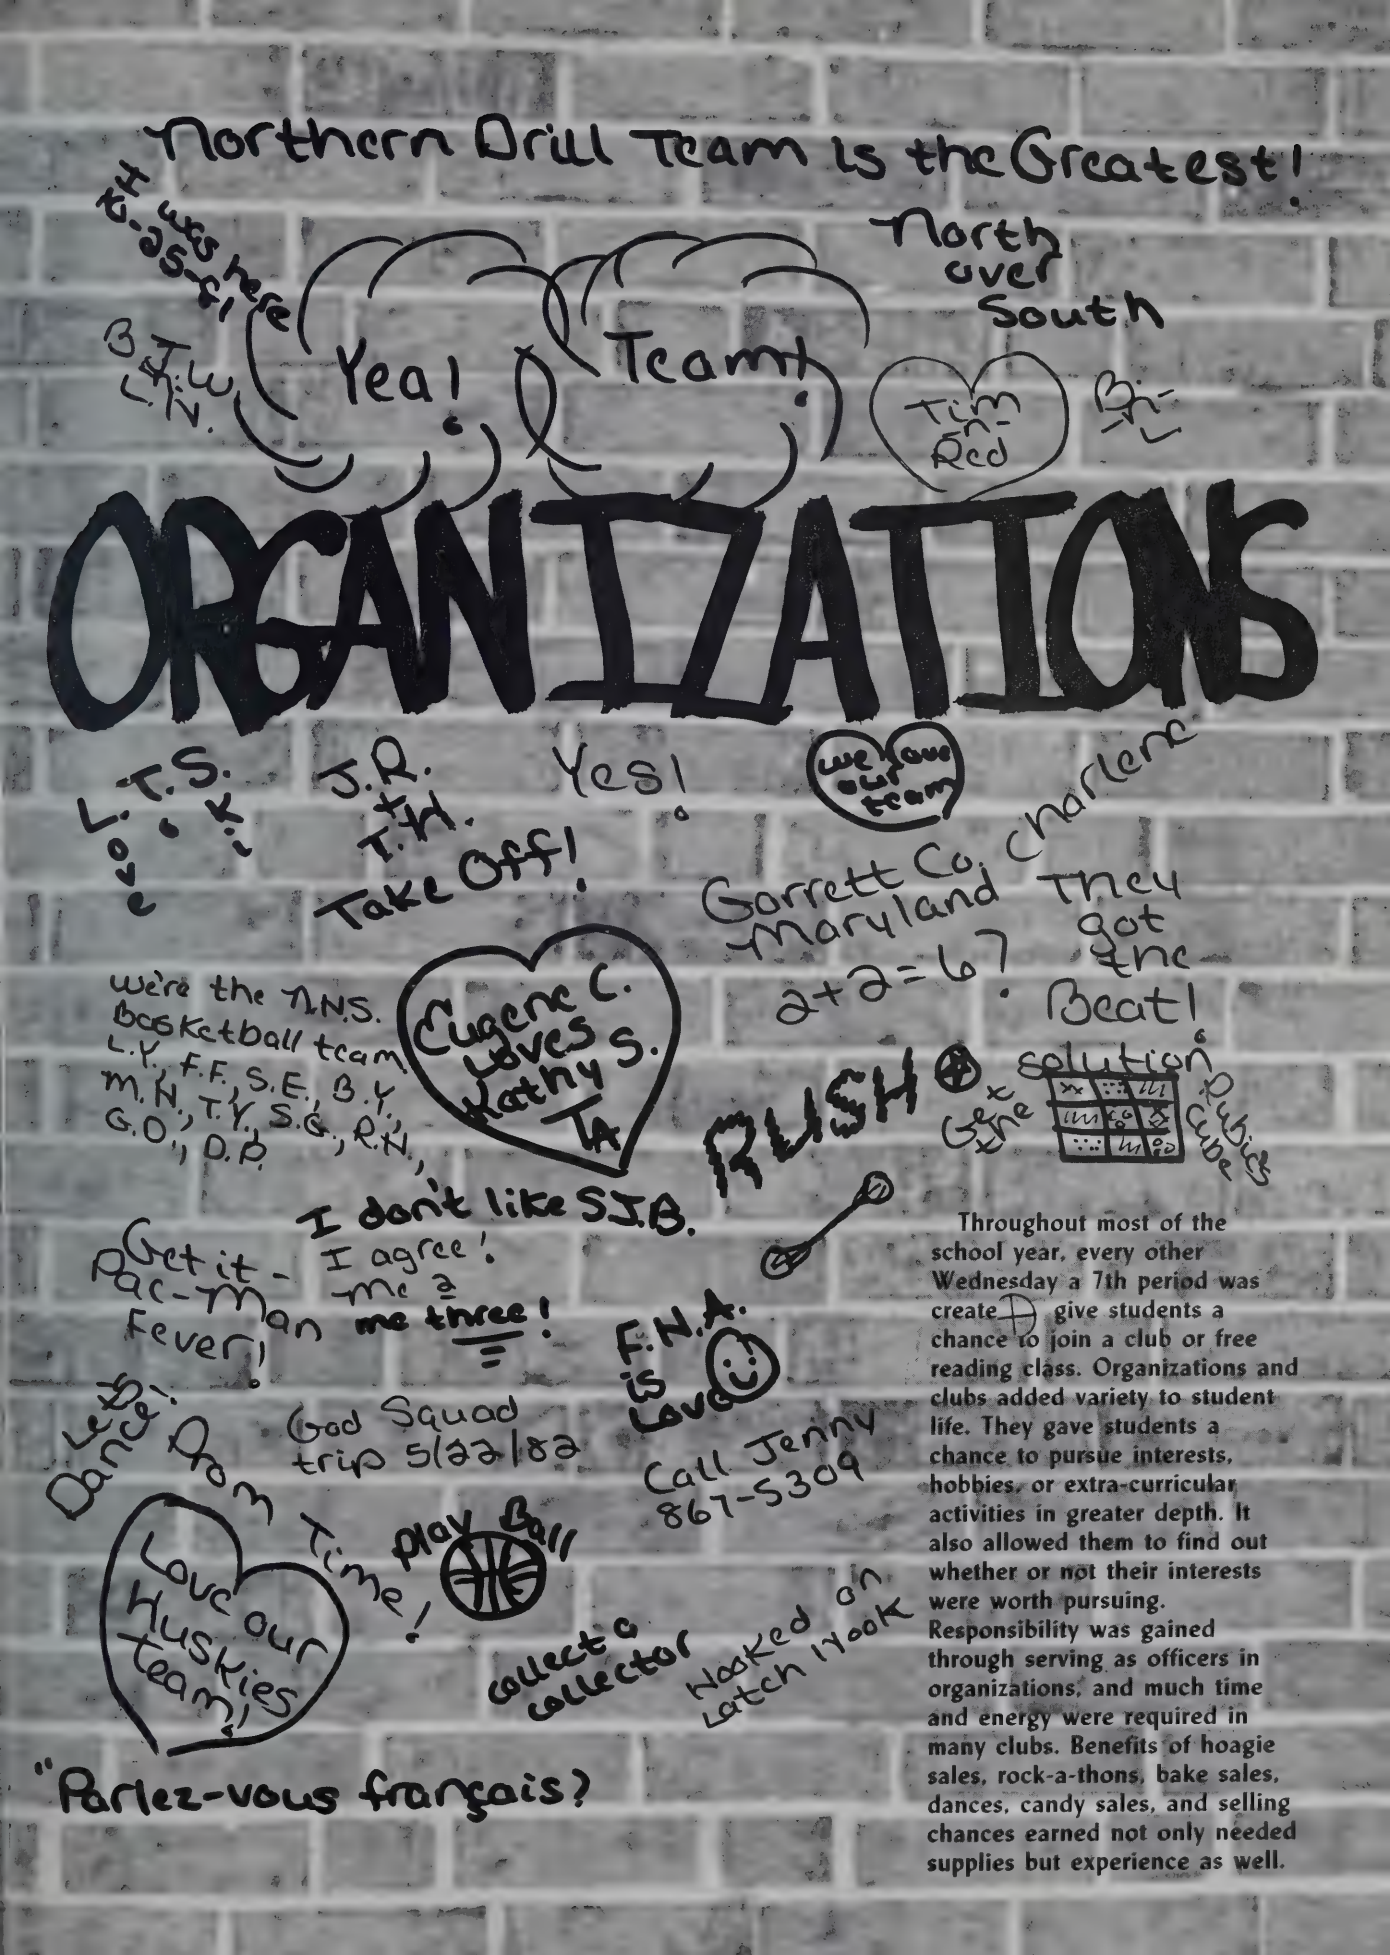
The 1982 Husky Baseball Team had a rough season this season. Being a young team, they won four games. With only two seniors and three juniors on the team, inexperience played an important role in the team's losing record. John Helmick, a former G.C.C. baseball coach, was this year's new head coach. His assistant coach was Eddie Carr.

To strike out the opposing batter, ace pitcher Tim Yunker throws his tricky curve ball.



Swinging level and hard, Donnie Jenkins tries for a base hit.

Concentrating on both the ball and the runner, Dwight Emory catches the grounder while Phil Carr moves behind to back him up.



Throughout most of the school year, every other Wednesday a 7th period was created to give students a chance to join a club or free reading class. Organizations and clubs added variety to student life. They gave students a chance to pursue interests, hobbies, or extra-curricular activities in greater depth. It also allowed them to find out whether or not their interests were worth pursuing. Responsibility was gained through serving as officers in organizations, and much time and energy were required in many clubs. Benefits of hoagie sales, rock-a-thons, bake sales, dances, candy sales, and selling chances earned not only needed supplies but experience as well.

Throughout the year, the cheerleading squad showed the school how much they cared through weeks of practice and dedication. The weeks of practices before tryouts were only the beginning. "Making the squad" meant staying after school, long bus trips, many nights late getting home, and lost study time. But the cheerleaders pulled through it all and would soon admit it was well worth their time.

The Northern Drill Team finished the year under the direction of Tracey Griffith as Captain and Karen Ross and Kim Habel filling the positions of Co-Captains. This year for the first time, the Drill Team became an official part of the Northern High School Marching Band under the direction of Mr. James Boord. They marched with the band in several parades including the Autumn Glory Parade held in Oakland, as well as performing with the band at half time at several football games. In addition they performed their routines to music at several basketball games. Pep Rallies provided still another chance for the Drill Team to do their part in promoting school spirit.

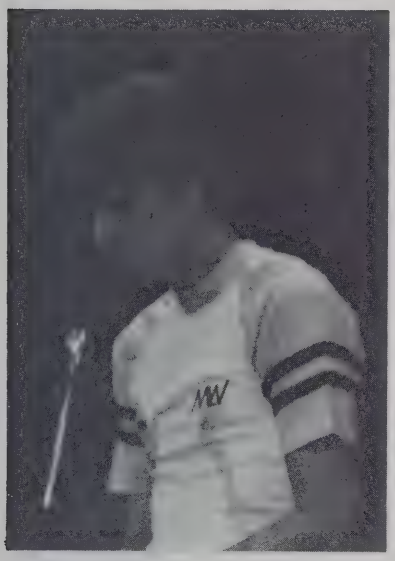
Spencer Schlosnagle gives his Student Council welcome speech.



As Student Council sponsor for the annual magazine campaign, Mr. Hanna shows one of the many prizes won for the sale of magazines.

Students in each homeroom selected one student to be their representative for the year to serve on the Student Council. The students also elected Student Council officers to lead in the discussions of the meetings. The Student Council sponsored many activities, including a bonfire, a dance, and a pep rally, as well as leading in making decisions concerning the school and acting as the voice of the students. At the end of the year the Student Council co-sponsored with the P.T.S.A., an off Broadway production of "Gotta Dance."

The school newspaper, The Viking, was produced by the cooperation of students chosen by adviser, Mrs. Lucille Sines. They wrote articles, typed copy, did paste-ups, photographed subjects, and distributed the finished paper. Photographers not only took their own pictures, but developed them as well. Aside from just writing articles, feature editors had to cover all major school events. Seven issues of Volume 22 of The Viking were published.

Clubs Elevate Skills

Feelings are not always easy to express, but Mark Holtschneider expresses his feeling for yearbook in an appropriate way.

As a part of the journalism curriculum, the yearbook class had the duty of producing the North Star. Even though it may have seemed like a lot of fun in the start, students soon found themselves faced with hard work. Lost or misplaced pictures, paragraphs, and margin errors were only the beginning of the problems faced as deadlines drew nearer and passed. The still unfinished pages caused many nerve-wracked brains and cramped fingers. But with their determination the students were finally able to get their pages finished and sent off to the Josten's Yearbook plant in State College, Pennsylvania.

Room 105 was the scene of varied programs for members of the God Squad. The club hosted students from a Bible study group at GCC who presented a modern day version of The Prodigal Sun. Other guests during club periods were Mrs. Joyce Miller who sang some of her original songs, and Pastor Johnson of the Maranatha Assembly of God, who led a discussion on questions submitted earlier by club members. On May 1 the God Squad hosted a public performance by New Song, the family gospel group of a Northern alumnus, Daisy Beiler Townshend, and her family. The year's activities culminated in a Saturday trip to the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D.C., the largest Christian Cathedral in the western hemisphere. Elected club officers planned and organized the numerous activities under the adviser, Miss Joanna Miller.

A local musician who has composed numerous inspirational songs, Mrs. Joyce Miller performs for the God Squad.

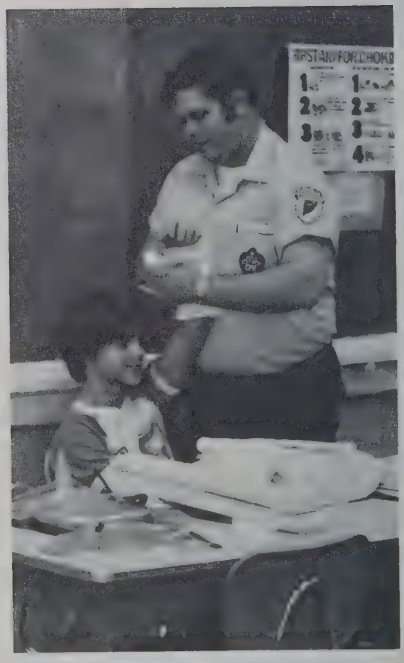
Anything

Coming to school today I learned that it was the beginning of a new semester. For the next nine weeks I would be learning the rules and skills needed to complete Driver Education and apply for my learner's permit. I learned from the instructor that for thirty-three days we would be in the classroom, and the next twelve days we would go to the simulator to practice our skills by watching films, and going through the procedures of driving. The last segment of the course would be seven days on-the-road driving. On those days we would drive the student driver car and actually test our knowledge and skills under the supervision of the instructor. With the passing grade of this course and having passed my sixteenth birthday, I would be able to apply for my learner's permit.

Great Books Added To

Students in the Review Grammar mini-course work on finding the correct verb tenses as used in the English language.

Putting the finishing touches to her map, Lillian Bender completes a project for her Westward Ho! mini-course.



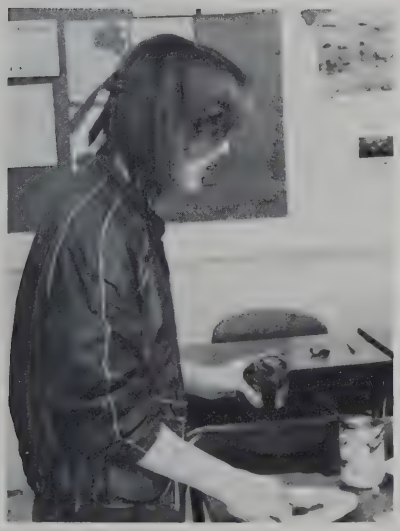
In Mrs. Linda Buckel's Functional Reading class, Northern Rescue Squad member, Mr. Gary Teats, uses Tom McCarty to demonstrate the procedure of bandaging an arm.

Language Curriculum

For a French II skit, Carissa Selby and Scott Watkins perform the French poem entitled "Le Dejeuner du Matin."

An addition to the language curriculum this year was Great Books. This nine week mini-course, instructed by Mr. Gerry Snelson of St. Matthew to the Communist Manifesto. The course was designed with a special emphasis on thought. Students in the Great Books mini-course were taught to examine their individuality, their goals, their beliefs, and their morals.

French is an elective that enhanced the learning process with a variety of fun-filled activities. The French III class, under the supervision of Miss Anna Mae Norris and art teacher Mrs. Margaret Pratt, researched true and post-Impressionists. For the projects, students were required to present a written and oral report concerning an artist and his style. Each student composed an artwork in the style of his artist. To conclude the study of French Impressionists, the French III class toured the National Gallery of Art on April 8.



Spreading jelly over the French crepes, Kim Taliaferro enjoys another part of French week.

French III students, Kathy Shives, Tracey Sweene, Peggy McFarland, Veronica Yoder, Anita Zehr, and Linda Yunker, participate in a French play entitled Le Petit Poucet."

Guest Speakers Give

With interest in the stages of dating, Patty Blocher and Sherri Golden take notes in Psychology class.

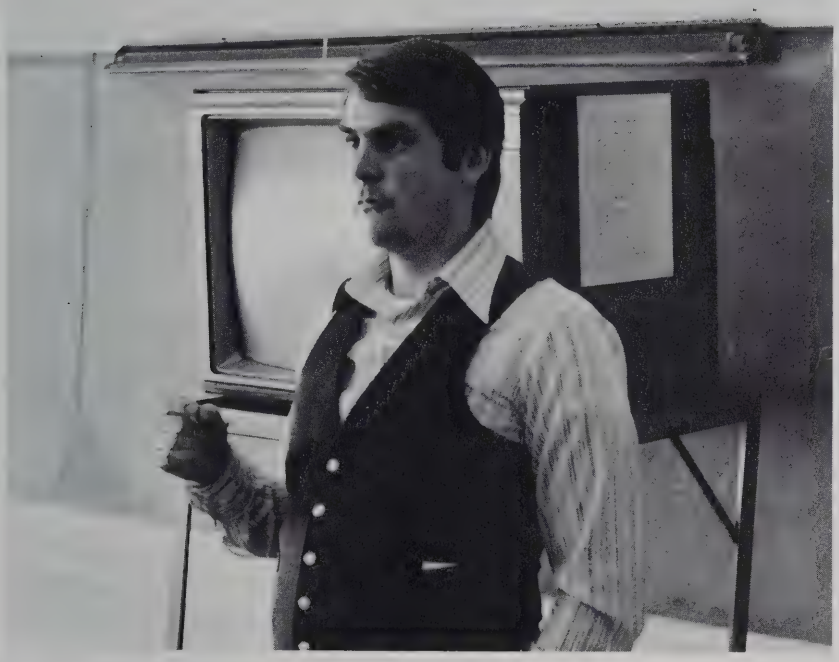
U.S. History students Troy Margroff and Barb Sisler are amused as Mrs. Vonda Yunker discusses President Truman's Fair Deal policies of the 1950's.

Answering Joe Friend's question on the cave-man, Mr. George Schramm explains the World History homework assignment.

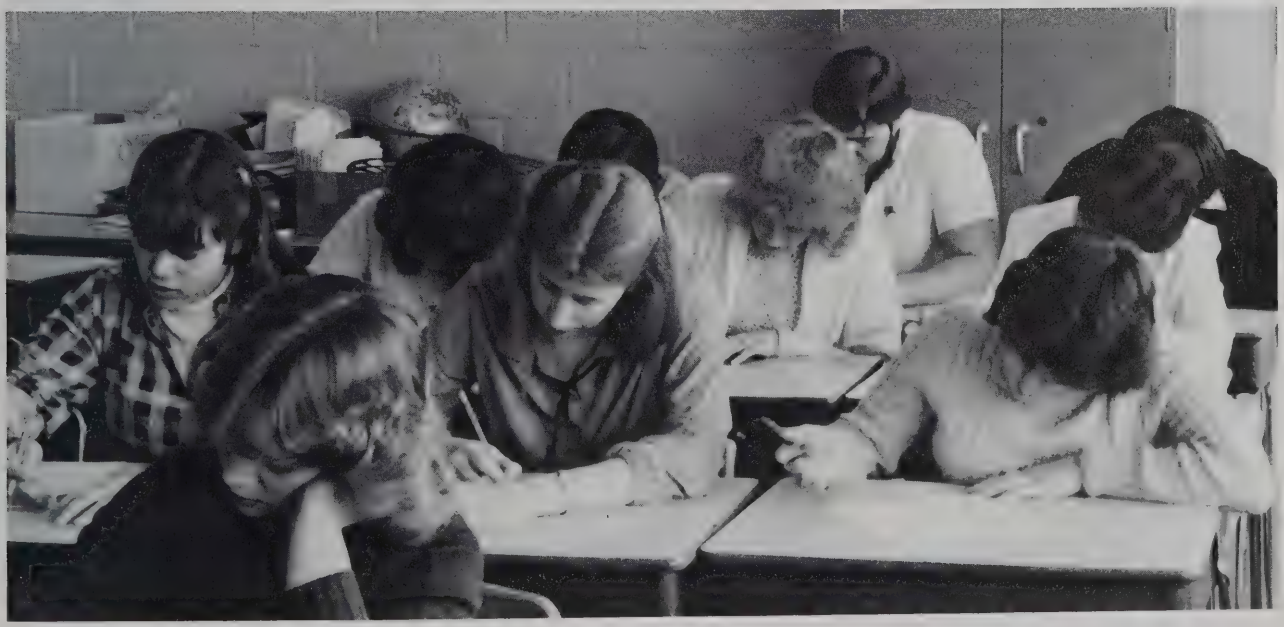
Warning students about look-alike drugs, Trooper Richard Alderton informs the Civics classes that these drugs can sometimes be more harmful than the authentic drug.

Insight On Civic Life

As guest speaker in the Civics classroom, Mr. Jim Woods answers students' questions on the identifcation of counterfeit money.



Civics has long been a required course for ninth grade students, but this year learning about our government took on a more practical side. Civics teacher Mr. Jack Settle arranged to have guest speakers from many different professions visit his classroom. Trooper Richard Alderton informed classes about drugs used in Garrett County. Ms. Cynthia Fenimore, a lawyer from the Legal Aid Bureau, informed students of their rights in court. Former Secret Service agent, Mr. Jim Woods, spoke on counterfeiting and national and international terrorism. These visits gave students more insight on matters that could affect their daily lives.

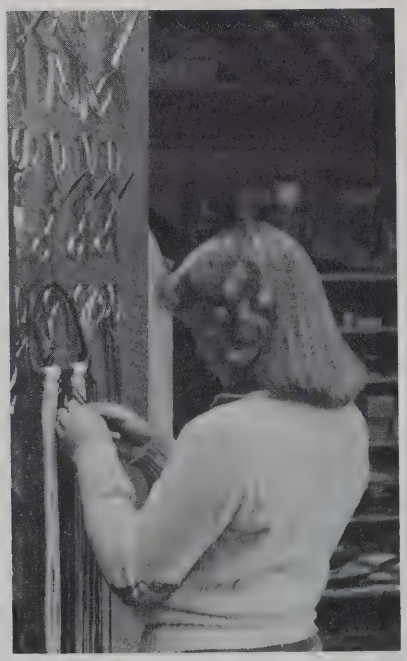


In conclusion to the unit on insurance, Contemporary Problems students take an examination on the different types of insurance.

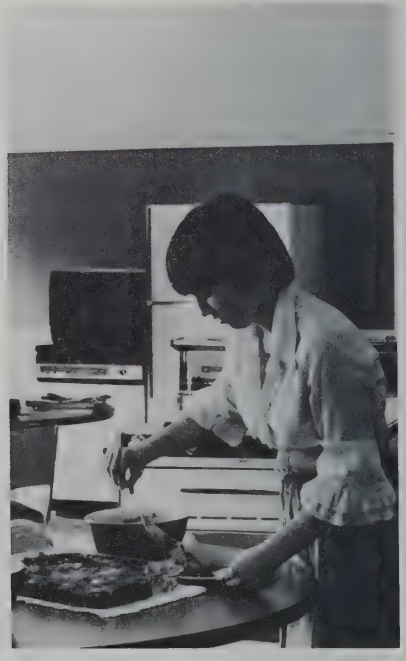
Home-Ec And Vo-Ag Classes

Keeping the young children's attention, Nancy Lewis leads a group sing-a-long with the aid of finger puppets.

Part of the twelfth grade home economics course is the annual nursery school. Karen Ross supervises the painting of Jeffrey Martin during a day at school.



Working on a Home Ec. project, Glenda Lininger uses available facilities to complete a future pocketbook.



Preparing foods from other countries gives you a sample of different customs. Regina Canan prepares a plate for a taste of Mexican food.

Keep Students' Time Occupied

For recognition of 23 years of devoted service to the Vo-Ag program, Nina Miller and Kista McKenzie present a plaque to Mr. Harold Loughrie.

Vocational Agriculture courses taught skills in farming, animal care, and horticulture to prepare students for future occupations. On December 18, the Vo-Ag department held a Christmas party for all members. In the greenhouse, horticulture students successfully grew and sold one thousand red and white poinsettias, and one thousand Easter lilies. In November, the Vo-Ag classes sold fruit to earn money for the spring parent-student banquet. This banquet, held on April 30, recognized students who excelled in the various aspects of Vocational Agriculture. Awards were presented to the top students, ranging from subjects such as Agricultural Mechanics to Soil Conservation and to Public Speaking.

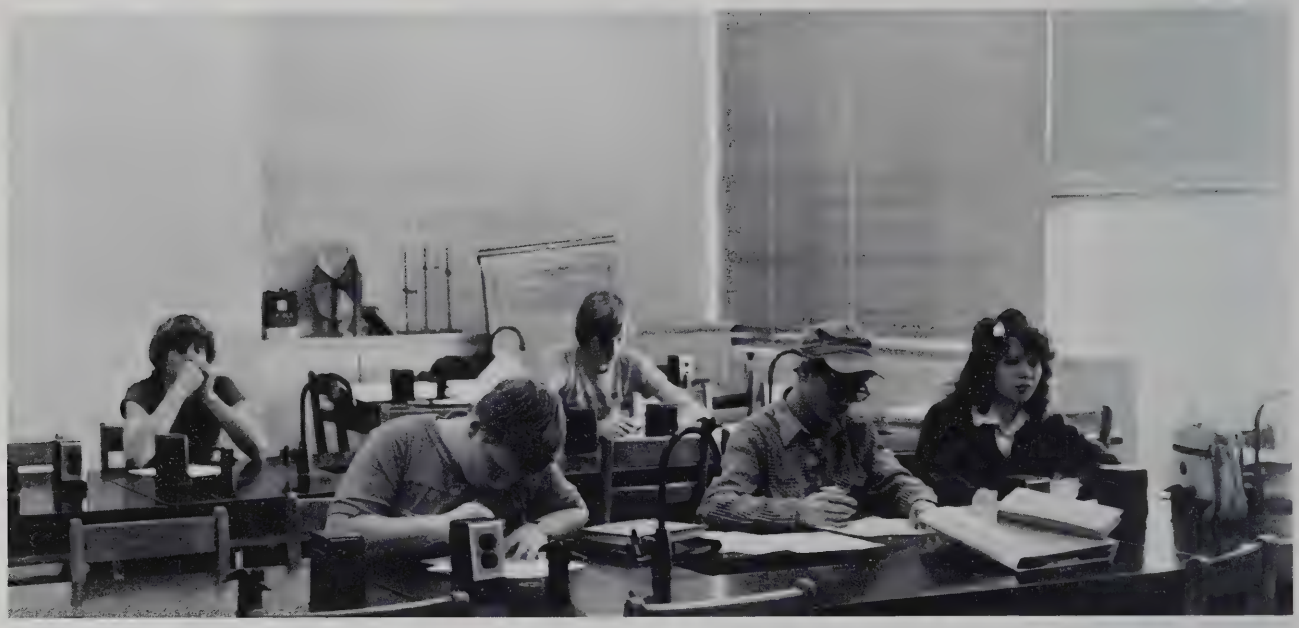
Home Economic classes participated in many activities such as cake decorating, making silk flower corsages, researching styles of cooking, holding the annual nursery school and working with macrame.

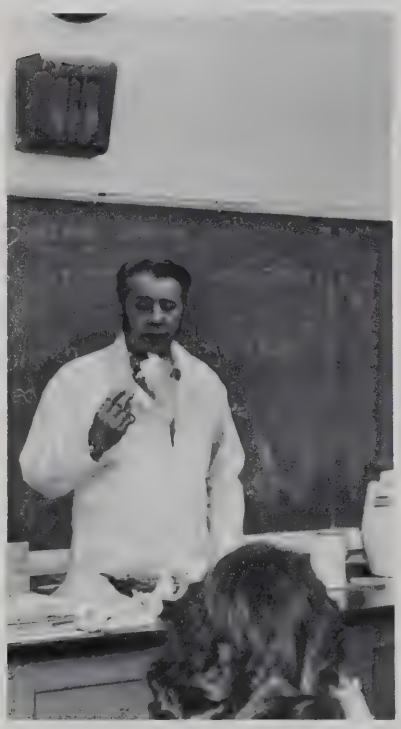
Placing the tomato plants in the pot, Courtney Rounds and Nina Miller work to raise money for the FFA judging trips.

Following the conclusion of the FFA banquet, ninth grader Danny Meese displays his four awards.

Variety Of Math

Working on their assignment, Floyd Detrick, Jim Beitzel, and Amiee Frickey, strive to comlete their homework before the bell.





Demonstrating a similar method used in artifical insemination, Dan Klotz uses liquid nitrogen to freeze a jonquil.

A student of Mrs. Valerie Frazee, Jana Harshman explains to Eric Otto the process of the food breaking down in our bodies in a demonstration at the Science Fair.

And Science Electives

Students are required to complete two units of mathematics toward meeting graduation requirements. In the first step toward meeting this requirement, ninth graders chose between Algebra I and a general math course. Academic students chose to continue the study of mathematics even farther than required, by taking Geometry, Algebra II and Trigonometry. In addition to these advanced courses students chose between Consumer Math and Business Math.

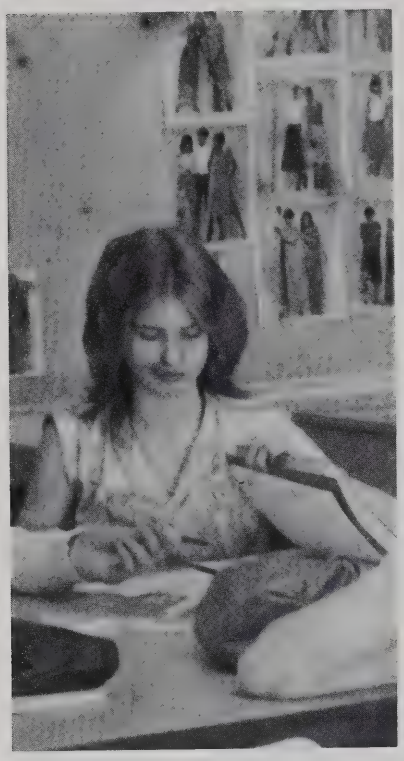
Studying polar axes and square roots, Stan Eggleston, Danny Davis, and Sam Ruggiero listen for the correct answer in trigonometry class.

To solve problems in geometry, Debbie Jones uses her knowledge of similar triangles.

Pondering over the "Problem of the Week," students in Algebra II try to work out the correct answer.

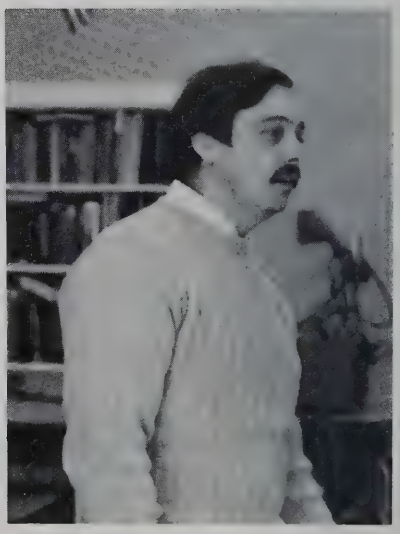
Opportunities Open

Looking through her notebook, Candi Friend hunts for the previous day's Health Class notes.



Visiting the Family Life class, science teacher Mr. Martin Green talks of the responsibilities that go with being a new father.

Family Life classes offer information to juniors and seniors, explaining the changes in the expectant mother. Dave Hetrick and Wally Isaacs look at models showing the growth and position of the unborn child.



Speaking to the Family Life class is Dr. George Stoltzfus, the local doctor from Friendsville. He discusses the pre-natal and post-natal care of the mother and infant.

To Students

Paul Frank and Bill Laird listen to instructor Mr. Michael Sines talk on the effects of alcohol and driving.

Among the many required classes, students do have opportunities to take classes they enjoy. These classes are Family Life taught by Mrs. Betty Wellborn and Driver Education taught by Mr. Michael Sines. Family Life teaches students the responsibilities that go with parenting and homemaking. Driver Education allows students who are sixteen or seventeen years old to apply for their driver's license after passing the three segments of the course-classroom instruction, simulator, and on-the-road driving.

Preparing for another on-the-road driving trip, Brad Yoder adjusts his seat belt and the front and rear view mirrors.

Business Courses Provide Experience

Practicing the basics for typing, Kim Habel works for accuracy.

A necessity for a secretarial career in the business world is the ability to type, to take shorthand, and to understand record keeping. Approximately 213 students were enrolled in these classes.

Accounting, which is taught in alternate years with Record Keeping, was offered again this year.

Learning to operate a simple switchboard, Barbara Oester connects telephone lines for Kim Wilburn and Carol Hetrick.

Artists Develop Talents

Art classes provide students with a chance to develop talents and skills. Students chose between Basic, Intermediate, Advanced, and Historic Art. For the first time the school was fortunate enough to have an Artist in Residence, sponsored by the Maryland State Arts Council. A three week workshop was presented by Mr. Donald Cook to approximately twenty selected students. The program centered on learning to paint with watercolors by watching and working with Mr. Cook on an individual basis.

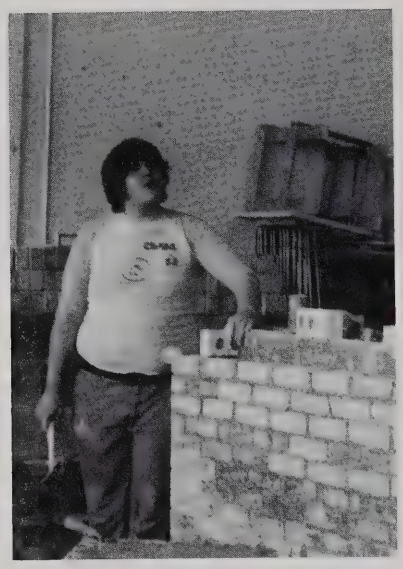
Using ruler and pencil, JoAnn Durst transfers lettering onto tracing paper.

In an academic approach to Art, Betty White and Dave Kinzey write critiques as classwork assignments.

Using an acrylic spray fixative, Tracey Dyche coats her drawings to prevent smearing.

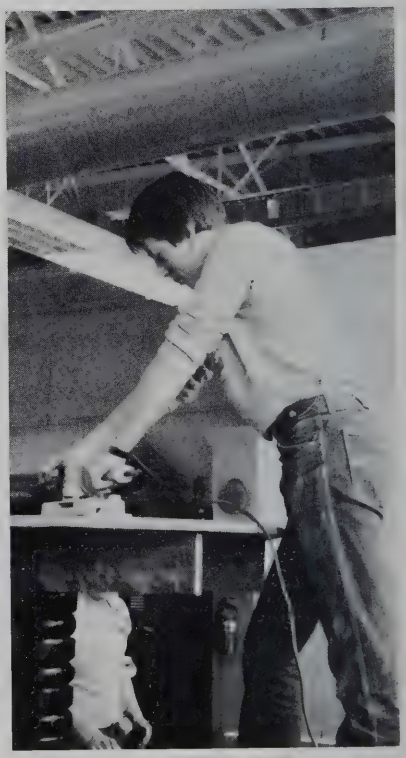
Diesel Engine Program Provides

Examining the layout of his brick wall, Tyrone McCrobie nears completion of his Trowel Trades project.



Armed with tools of the drafting trade—an architect scale, a T-square, and a pencil and eraser—Charlie Durst plans the dimensions of a house.

Conducting lab experiments, students in Electronics I work with light circuits, relay circuits, and potentiometers.



To give a smoother finish to his table, Mike Glotfelty uses a sander on his project in Building Trades.

Another Option In Vocational Classes

Preparing to saw a piece of lumber, Jay Knox and Doug Smith adjust the guide of the table saw in Industrial Arts.

As an alternative to a college prep plan of study, vocational education was a popular and worthwhile avenue for many students. Vocational courses, from Drafting to Trowel Trades, are closely linked to mathematics, and most of them require some type of math prerequisite. Taking a closer look at the happenings in the vocational classes uncovered some new additions to the Auto Mechanics department. This year, for the first time, the Diesel Engine Program was introduced to six students. This class provided another option for students taking Auto Mechanics. Diesel engines are becoming more popular because they have advantages over gasoline engines. Some of these advantages include greater fuel economy and fewer parts to maintain, resulting in lower maintenance and operating cost. Students who completed the study of the diesel engine had just one more advantage when entering the world of work.

Using a wheel.wrench, Bobby McKenzie loosens the lug nuts to change the tire in Auto Mechanics.

Residential Wiring student, Glenn Artice, finishes wiring a receptacle before shouting, "Fire in the hole," to warn other students to abandon the wiring panel.

Students Suppor

Having bumped the unseen ball, Connie Butler and player Amy Margroff anticipate the score.

Setting the ball, Brett Hasenbuhler hopes to receive the assistance from teammates Jeff Eggleston, Jeff McClintock, and Chris Garlitz.

Faculty

Shelving books is one way Laverna Bender assists Miss Jacqueline Williams in the library.

Throughout the school, assistants can be seen aiding teachers and fellow students in various daily activities. Phys-Ed assistants aid in the gym by taking roll, leading exercises, and assisting with athletic skills. Teachers' assistants are kept busy not only by taking roll and checking papers, but by typing dittos and creating bulletin boards as well. The day of an office aide is filled with tasks such as running errands, collecting absentee slips, looking up student information, and sometimes answering the telephone. Assistants in the library can be seen checking books in and out, signing passes, and shelving books, along with assisting fellow students in locating needed information and interesting books.

Students Express

Before the Autumn Glory parade, the drummers, Brian Wachter, Jamie Spiker, and Mark Holtschneider practice the cadence.

Relaxing after the Christmas program are Kim Wilburn, Cathy Wheeler, and Sherri Golden.

Former band director Mr. Melvin Schwing was honored with a gold pocket watch from the Band Boosters for serving 29 years at Northern High School.

One of the skills taught in Band is learning new marching steps. Here Kim Wilburn, Cathy Wheeler, Cathy Murray, and Kim Fike practice the glide step.

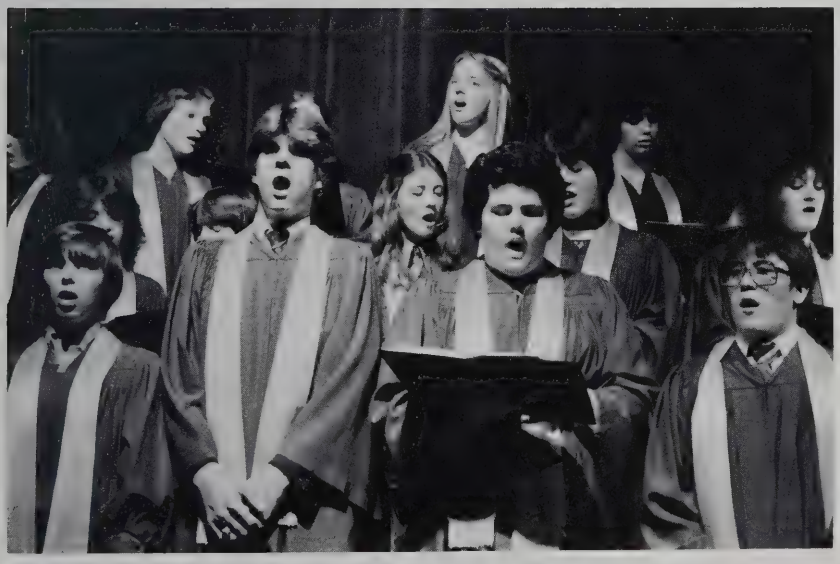
Musical Talents

Practicing for the Spring Program, chorus members sing "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

During the year students who had musical ability participated in band and chorus activities. Under the new direction of Mr. James Boord, both groups presented the annual Christmas and spring programs.

Chorus members Jesse Yoder and Sheila Wagner attended All-State Chorus at the Convention Center in Balitimore.

The band marched in local parades, placing first in the Oakland Fireman's Parade and third in the Maple Festival, and traveled to Kings Dominion to participate in the daily parade.



Carrying the male section of the Senior Chorus, Jesse Yoder, Spencer Schlosnagle, Vance Schroyer, and Dwylin Miller sing during the Christmas program.

In the Christmas program, Glenda Lininger sings the solo part in "Amazing Grace."

Journalism Requires

1. Head photographer, Spencer Schlosnagle, enlarges negatives to the correct size for pasting in the layout.

2. "Husky Hall" writers Peggy McFarland and Julie Warnick report school activities in another column for the county weekly, The Republican.

3. Co-editor Fred Fox discusses with Julie Warnick and Amy Wellborn the planning and layout of the advertisement section.

4. Putting the finishing touches to the Viking, Robin Frazee and Barbara Oester work toward the deadline.

Advanced English Skills

Writing informative captions for the yearbook is more difficult than it may seem. Linda Yunker works for variety in sentence patterns.

Journalism required advanced English skills. Students had the choice of electives which included yearbook or newspaper journalism. The Journalism II class, instructed by Miss Joanna Miller, was a yearbook staff of eighteen, including Co-editors Sheera Brandes and Tammy Beachy. The North Star reviewed the year with pictures of fellow students and activities.

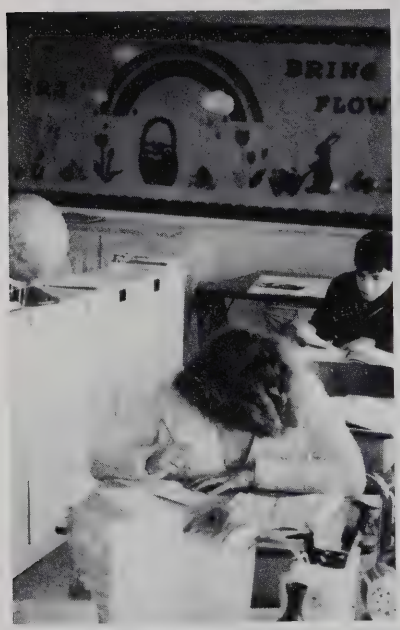
The Viking Co-editors Fred Fox and Rosie Wiley guided the staff of twenty-nine to produce seven issues. The Viking highlighted activities and current school events. Mrs. Lucille Sines served her fourteenth year as adviser.

While Barbara Friend transfers a layout to the 3-R form, Holly Harman and Jana Harshman work on the Homecoming pages.

Using the cropper, Cathy Wheeler sizes the picture for the Academic section of the North Star.

New Program Gives Extra Help

Working on Language Arts, Shelly Lytle and Gary Michaels learn to improve their punctuation skills.



As a tutor in the CETA program, Felicity Kaiser helps Gary Michaels, a Special Ed. student, with his spelling assignment.

The Vocational Support Service Team (VSST) was a new addition to the Special Education department this year. Garrett County, along with eighteen other counties in Maryland, received a grant from the federal government which made this program possible. The program provided support to students who were unable to succeed in vocational education without special assistance. The three-member team, consisting of Coordinating Resource Teacher Kathie Douglass, and aides Sherri Miller and Diane Klotzbaugh, provided in-class aid, tutoring, remediation, audio version of printed vocational materials, or anything to help the student perform to his ability.

An aide in the VSST, Mrs. Diane Klotzbaugh frequently assists students such as Teresa Snyder in Accounting classes.

At the awards assembly the myth that teachers don't care was shattered: someone had sponsored all those activities the students were getting awards for . . . . But what was this? I thought the awards assembly was for students—but Mrs. Jo Ann Robinson was getting an award, too! For 24 years, Mr. Bittinger was saying, Mrs. Robinson had been advisor for the cheerleaders.

How many summertime and after school hours had she spent pepping up our cheerleaders, I wondered. I decided to check it out after the assembly. While Mrs. R. had not kept a time sheet, she did say that she had spent approximately 400 hours a year with the cheering squad—and that, multiplied by 24 years, came to 9,600 hours! Surely no one at the assemly was more deserving of the laurels than was Mrs. Jo Ann Robinson.

Heavier Summer Workload

Miss Joanna Miller
Courses: English, Journalism II (North Star)
Activities: God-Squad Club Adviser

Mrs. Lucile H. Sines
Courses: English, Journalism I (Viking)
Activities: Nordique Adviser, Junior Class Adviser

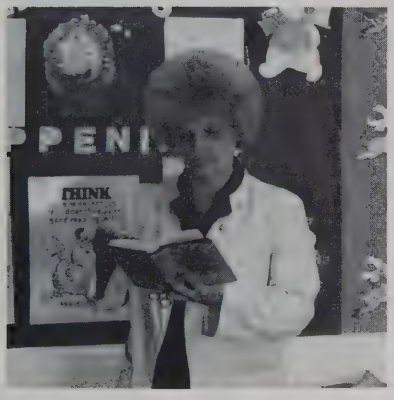
Mrs. Jacqueline Davis
Courses: English
Activities: Majorettes Adviser

Assisting the staff members of the Viking is one of many jobs in the daily routine of Mrs. Lucille Sines.



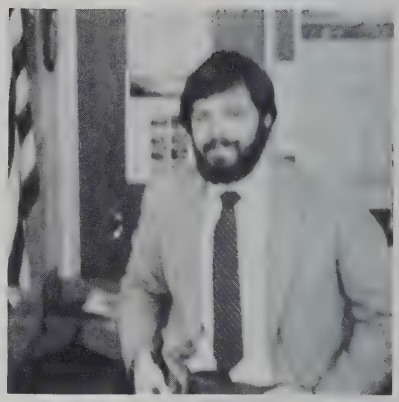
Mr. Gerald Frederick Snelson
Courses: English

Mrs. Linda Mae Buckel
Courses: Reading, English
Activities: Latch Hook Club Adviser

A change in the schedule, from seven periods to six, increased the workload of the summer staff. While students enjoyed their summer vacation, administrators and secretaries worked on the new schedule. This new system has increased the size and the duration of classes. It has made homogeneous grouping of some classes more difficult than before. Now students of all abilities have been grouped together in one class. "The six-period day also limits the class options a student can choose from," stated Mr. James Thomas, Guidance Counselor.

Teachers Find Interests

Mr. James Boord
Courses: Band, Chorus
Activities: Pep Band Club Adviser



Mrs. Joanny Martin
Courses: Food & Nutrition, Textiles & Clothing, Home Economics, Health
Activities: Future Homemakers of America Advisor

Preparing for Homecoming, Kim Wilburn aids Mr. James Boord with his boutonniere.

Miss Anna May Norris
Courses: French I, II, III, English
Activities: French Club Adviser

Mr. Harold D. Trickett
Courses: Electronics I, II, III, Residential Wiring I, II
Activities: Electronics Club Adviser

Mrs. Margaret C. Pratt
Courses: Basic, Intermediate, Advanced Art
Activities: Senior Adviser

Outside Of Classrooms

Mr. Michael Sines
Course: Driver Education

Mrs. JoAnn Robinson
Course: Physical Education
Activities: Cheerleader Advisor

Mr. Harvey R. Speicher
Course: Physical Education
Activities: Varsity Basketball Coach, Assistant Football Coach, Basketball Club Adviser

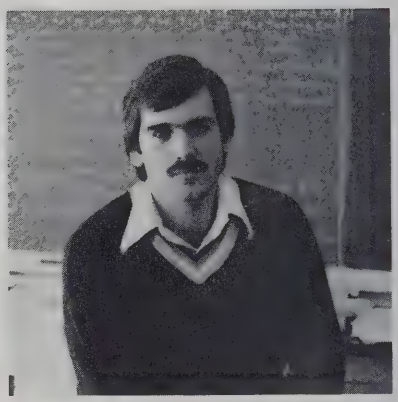
Showing his students the correct procedure, Mr. Everett Warne puts an air cleaner onto the engine of a car.

Mr. Everett Warne
Coure: Auto Mechanics
Activities: Auto Mechanics Club Adviser

Mr. Ron Kuhn
Course: Cooperative Education Program

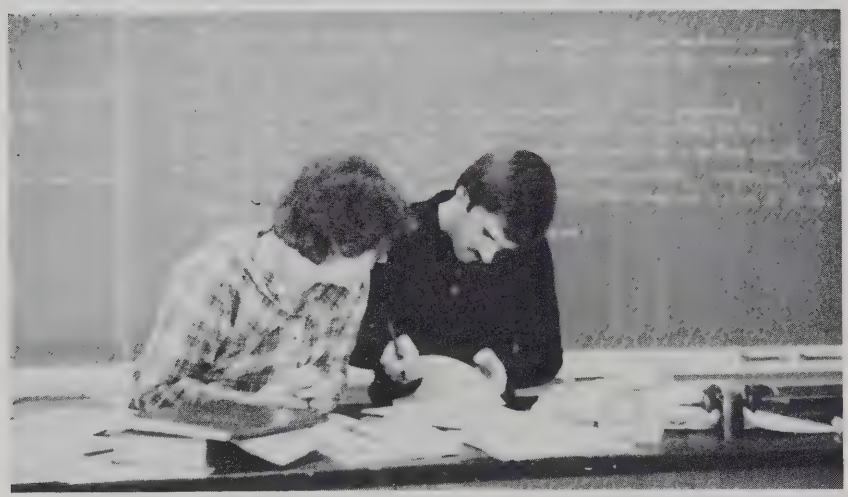
In addition to teaching required courses, teachers have the opportunity to teach elective courses to endole a student to pursue their interests and goals. Teachers are a valuable asset to the students participating in these elective courses. Not only do these teachers instruct the students, they have an interest in what they teach out of the classroom. Mr. Harvey Speicher plays in the area's softball league during the summer. Mr. Jim Boord plays the trumpet in several bands that play in the surrounding area.

Challenging



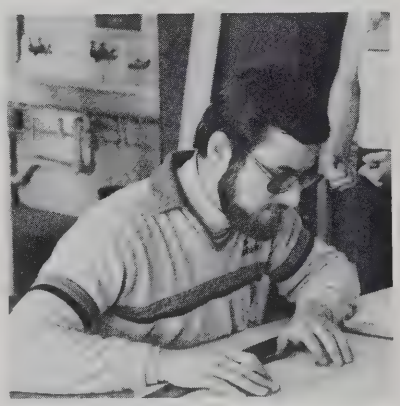
Mr. Martin R. Green
Courses: Biology, Anatomy and Physiology

Mrs. Valerie A. Frazee
Courses: Chemistry, Earth Science, Biology
Activities: Health Careers Club Adviser



During fourth period Karen Rexrode aids Mr. Martin Green with odds and ends relating to Biology and Anatomy and Physiology.

Mr. Eugene T. Pustolski
Courses: Earth Science, Physics

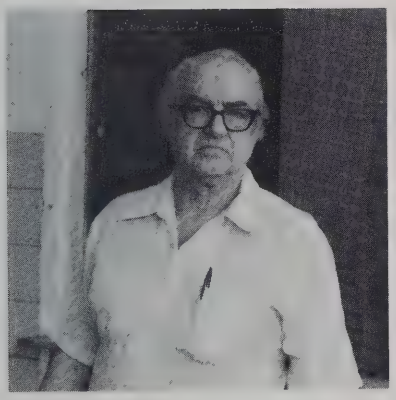


Mr. Eric C. Perfetti
Course: Industrial Arts
Activities: Ski Club Adviser

Mr. Harold G. Loughrie
Course: Vocational Agriculture
Activities: FFA Club Adviser

Career Minds

Mr. James Bucy
Courses: Math 9, Algebra I, Geometry, Trigonometry/Advanced Math
Activities: Chess Club Adviser

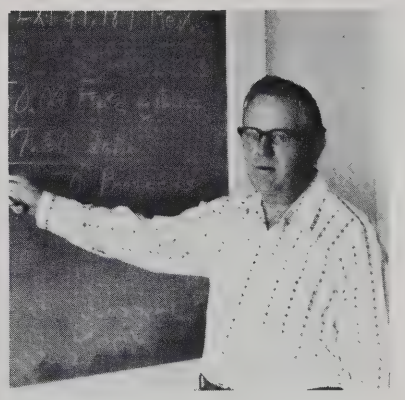


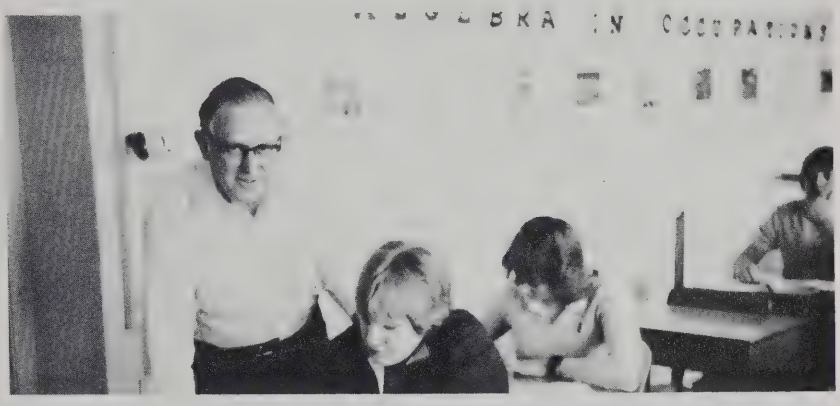
Mr. Carroll M. Forsyth
Courses: Drafting and Building Trades

Mr. Harold L. Humberson
Course: Trowel Trades

Mrs. Elizabeth Deem
Courses: General Math, Algebra II, Earth Science R.

Mr. William K. Umbel, Jr.
Courses: Algebra I, Consumer Math





Having difficulty with an Algebra problem, Terry Beitzel asks Mr. William Umbel for some help.

Many career planning students participate in a variety of science and math classes. Anatomy and Physiology, instructed by Mr. Martin Green, teaches students the functions of the human body. Chemistry, taught by Mrs. Valerie Frazee, makes students aware of chemical compounds and how to decompose substances. Math Classes ranging from Geometry to Trigonometry, teacher is Mr. Bucy, were ideal for students to challenge their minds and aide their mathmatical educations. Whichever the student chooses will give him or her a better understanding for his or her career ahead.

New Special Education

Activities: Faculty Advisery, Drill Team Adviser

Ms. Elizabeth Hinebaugh
Courses: Special Education English and Social Studies
Activities: Drill Team Adviser

Mrs. Sonya S. Golden
Course: Special Education Aide

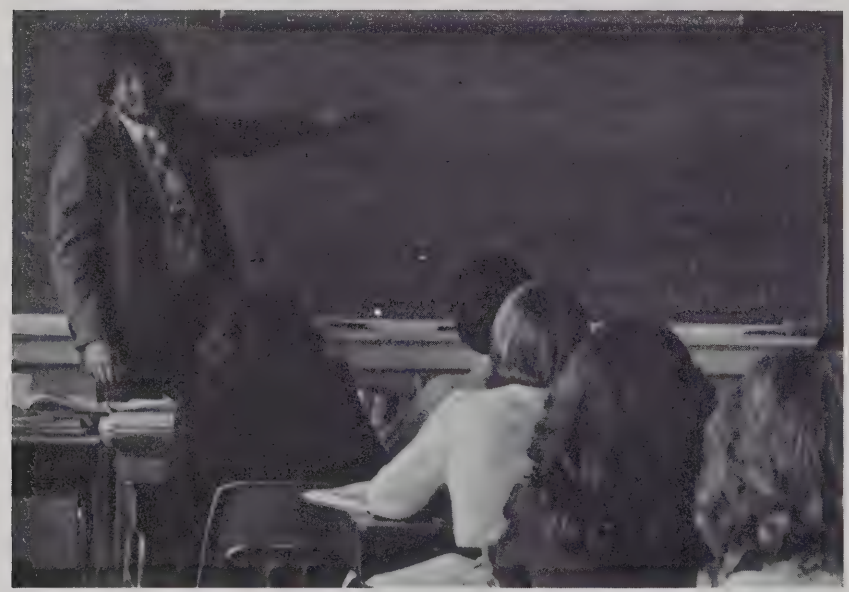
Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Debra Alkire and Mr. John Alkire on March 27, 1982.

Comparing answers to the test he took, Carl Knox listens as Mrs. Debra Alkire points out his mistakes.

There was a new Special Education program introduced this year. It offered the basic four subject areas: Social Studies, Science, English, and Math. Other years only English and Math were available through special education. Designed to help the students, these courses provided both basic and functional material, allowing the special education students greater achievement in all of their major subject areas. Mrs. Debra Alkire believes in this program and stated, "I feel this program is very worthwhile to our students, and I would like to see the program offered again in the fall."

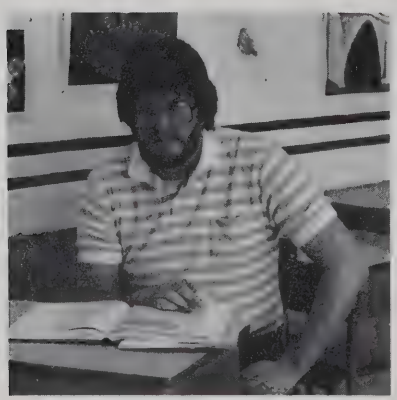
New Grading

Using the board as a visual aid, Mr. Robert Yunker explains to his Psychology class some of the reasons for the human behavior.



Mr. George Andrew Schramm
Course: World History

Mr. Russell John Settle
Course: Civics
Activities: Football Coach, Lettermen's Club Adviser.



Mr. Robert H. Yunker
Courses: Contemporary Problems, Psychology, U.S. History
Activities: Senior Class Adviser, Athletic Director, Member of Faculty Advisery Committee

Mrs. Vonda M. Yunker
Course: American History
Activities: Volleyball Coach, Softball Coach, Junior Class Adviser

Mr. Clinton J. McKenzie
Courses: Maryland Geography, Contemporary Problems, World History
Activities: Senior Adviser

System Adopted

Miss Jacqueline Williams
Librarian
Collectors' Club Adviser

Mrs. Betty Richter
Library Aide

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Wellborn
Course: Family Life Instructor

Mary C. Schurman
Courses: Shorthand I, Typewriting I, Business English, and Introduction to Business.
Activities: Artistic Typing Club

Mrs. Donetta Nice
Courses: Typing II, Shorthand II, Accounting, Office Practice
Activities: Latch Hook Crafts Club Adviser, Junior Class Adviser.

A new grading system has been adopted. A percentage grade has taken the place of the normally used letter grade. This means a more accurate account of students grades. As for the amount of knowledge learned by a student for a year, it will be indicated by the final yearly average. The new system of grading was adopted because it is believed to be faultless and most teachers seem to prefer it.

Service Personnel Provide Suitable Environment

As a bus driver, Rodney Meyers must wait for students before driving them home.

Cafeteria Staff-
Patty Schmidt, Freda Reichenbecher, Mary Frantz, Lucille Glotfelty, Beverly Frazee

The cafeteria staff, custodians, and bus drivers worked long and unusual hours. Every school day, the cafeteria staff prepared a hot meal for the students and faculty members. The custodians provided a suitable environment for students and faculty to work in. Last, but not least, the bus drivers did their part by transporting the students to and from school. All three groups of these people played important roles in the school, but were sometimes not appreciated during the day.

Custodians-

Morning already? Oh, how I despise getting out of bed. I wish I could stay here all day. Oh-no! It's quarter-till. I had better move.

School, school, school-it's the same day-in and day-out. These halls are as dull as ever. I surely will be glad when the seniors' last day comes. It'll be a definite change of pace.

"Hi Fred!" What's he all excited about? It's only Thursday morning. He must be on senior officer business.

"Hey, Stan, Hi Steve . . ." What are those guys up to? I think I'll go sit down.

Boy, I'm tired. Let's see, Mr. Snelson should be happy—I'm done with David Copperfield. I guess if I have spare time I'll finish my anatomy.

"Hi Rox, where're you off to? Graduation practice!!" Today is the last day!

"Hey, guys, wait for me!"

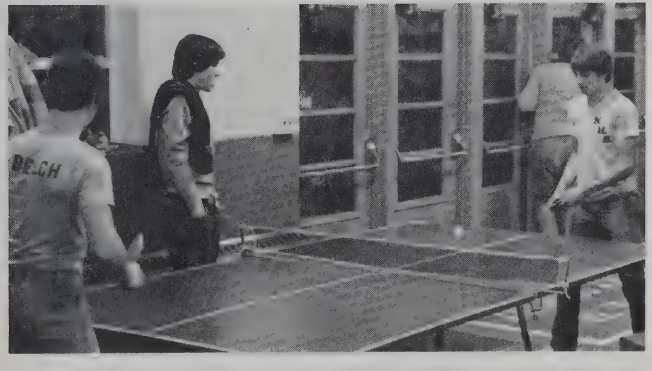
The annual senior party, held on November 20, became a memorable event for over half the class that were able to fight snow and ice to attend. Activities such as volleyball, the more popular, and ping pong were held in the gym, and there was music to dance by in the lower cafeteria. During the activities, relish trays, soft drinks, cake, and platters of cheeses, meats and other finger foods were made available by the Activities Committee.



While Thomas Fife observes the action of the ping pong game, George Belch and Lowell Yoder concentrate on winning.

For Seniors

In February, seniors received memory books and senior keys that had been orderd earlier in the school year. The months following were filled with autographing and with collecting paraphernalia and pictures for the memory book. The seniors' keys were ordered in many ways. There was a choice of a necklace, a bracelet, a key ring, or just the key. As a result, many students took part in this once in a lifetime event of ordering senior keepsakes.

As part of the school tradition, senior memory books and keys become a way to capture memories of fellow students and the school.

During the year many decisions concerning the senior class had to be made. By way of ballots, seniors voted for class motto, colors, and flower. More difficult decisions to be made included those concerning the senior trip, this being the most difficult because of tight schedules and the difficulty in pleasing the entire senior class. Other than these, senior officers dealt only with general business matters of the class.

Fred Fox, senior class president, stated, "It's important to get kids willing to do their jobs and fulfill their functions as class officers into office so that the school year may be a successful one."

Throughout the year the senior class officers led the way for the entire senior body through each new problem encountered.

Serving as class officers are Fred Fox, President, Spencer Schlosnagle, Vice-President, Rosemarie Wiley, Secretary, Debbie Wagner, Treasurer, Ramona Yoder, Historian, and Merv Kamp, Parliamentarian.

Northern At Boys State

In the summer of 1981 three seniors—Fred Fox, Tim Yunker, and Goerge Belch—represented Northern at Boys State, an American Legion-sponsored camp for teenage boys to give them an awareness and appreciation for the type of society they live in.

Camp life consisted of early mornings and army type conditioning, followed by seminars and classes in the afternoon.

Another activity related to the social awareness program was the establishment of cities. Each of the six or seven housing buildings represented a city. The guys of each city voted for their city's government, and at the end of the program, voting for an overall mayor took place.

Taking part in Boys State for a week are Fred Fox, George Belch, and Tim Yunker.

While discussing plans for the Senior trip, Tracy Finzel, Danny Davis, Lowell Yoder, and Greg Durst examine pamphlets from King's Dominion, Kennywood, and Hershey Park. Not present for the picture was Scott Doerr.

Throughout the year activities were planned for the seniors by the senior activities committee, headed by Tracy Finzel. Earlier in the year the activities committee put together the senior party and made the arrangements for the food and recreation. Working closely with the senior officers, the committee formulated and put into action plans for the senior trip to King's Dominion on May 7, 1982.

Collects Tickets

On April 23, 1982, GOTTA DANCE! was performed in front of the complete student body in the Northern cafetorium. The production was presented by the Performing Arts Repertory Theatre (PART) from New York City. The production spanned the history of dance from the very beginning of mankind to the present age.

Because of the cost of the production, each student paid one dollar, and for the production at GCC the Student Council Ways and Means Committee sold tickets for the performance.

As one of the members of the GOTTA DANCE! committee, Sheera Brandes gives to Spencer Schlosnagle the money she has collected for the performance.

During the year in decisions made by the senior officers and the activities committee, the seniors were counseled and watched over by three "guardian angels." The senior advisors were Mr. Clinton McKenzie, Mrs. Margaret Pratt, and Mr. Robert Yunker. Through all functions of the senior class the advisors were a great deal of help. Senior class president Fred Fox gives special recognition and thanks to Mr. Robert Yunker for his greatly appreciated help in the senior officer functions.

Functioning as class advisors are Mr. Robert Yunker, Mrs. Maggie Pratt, and Mr. Clinton McKenzie.

To make sure caps and gowns fit correctly, Lisa Glotfelty and Mark Uphold model them.

On April 5, 1982, graduation materials arrived from Josten's. Those materials included were caps and gowns, name cards, and announcements. Prices ranged approximately from $25.00 to $51.00 depending on what each person ordered. Upon receiving these, seniors got the chance to "chit chat" with fellow students, expressing attitudes towards graduation.

As in years past, seniors received awards and honors for their outstanding educational achievements and perseverence through high school.

Twelve seniors were recognized in the top ten percent of the class for grades received at Northern High. Others were recognized for academic ability and success. If attendance was outstanding appropriate honors were given. Students excelling in the vocational and business areas were also given recognition. Six seniors, Ramona Yoder, Debbie Wagner, Rosie Wiley, Jackie Gatterman, Kim Wilburn, and Tim Yunker, received awards for having recorded 1500 points or more for activities they were involved in during the four years of high school.

Class Prayer

Dear Heavenly Father,

As we come to this crossroad in our lives, we ask for Your direction. You have been with us in the past and have seen our trying times and the good times we've been through. Gently lead us in the right direction as we depart from here.

Dear God, let us reach out to someone in need; allow us to make a mark on a society that often seems so cold and cruel. Give us the strength to do Your will.

Help us not to be afraid to try. Allow us to stretch our wings. As a baby bird, we will surely fall in the process, but give us the courage to get up and try again.

Teach us to dream and to aim high. For if we truly believe, faith can move mountains. Instill in us a peaceful calm and a hope that will never die.

Take us through life as You have brought us this far with guidance, love, and blessing.

In Jesus' Name,
Amen

Senior Class History

From the moment we walked into Northern as sophomores and became a part of the hustle and bustle of senior high, the years have flown by so quickly that we hardly had a chance to realize what happened to us . . . how we've grown . . . and what we have become. Looking back at how the pace quickened. Bob Lipscomb, Bob McKenzie, Fred Fox, and Mike Robinson moved to the Varsity football team along with Vicki Kamp and Sharon Sisler becoming a part of the girls' volleyball team. Nabbing the rotating trophy from Southern for the girls's Varsity basketball team were sophomores Cheryl Guthrie, Donna Ringer, Vicki Kamp, and Karen Rexrode. Mike Robinson gained experience and moved up for a position on the varsity basketball team. Debbie Wagner, escorted by Mike Robinson, represented the sophomore class in the Autumn Glory parade. Ramona Yoder and Debbie Wagner both held coveted positions on the varsity cheerleading squad, while Tracey Griffith and Karen Ross performed with the Drill Team. Glenda Lininger, Trudy Carpenter, and Tawney Cowan filled the sophomore unit on the majorette squad. Our sophomore year, the baseball team earned more wins than ever with Fred Fox, Lee Schwartzbeck, Mark Holtschneider, and Tim Yunker behind the bat. Girls' softball moved into its second season with Donna Ringer, Shelley King, and Vicki Kamp as returning players. Bob Eichorn, Bob McKenzie, George Belch, and Merv Kamp helped the wrestling team attain another winning season.

Before we had a chance to blink our eyes, we were juniors! We chose Fred Fox, Bob Lipscomb, Rosie Wiley, and Donna Ringer as President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer, under the guidance of Mrs. Vonda Yunker. We sold candy bars until we were blue in the face so that we could give the graduating Seniors a prom to remember. Lisa Moore and Lowell Yoder represented the Junior class in the Autumn Glory. George Belch, Greg Durst, and Stan Eggleston advanced to the varsity football team, while Lowell Yoder, Stan Eggleston, Mark Wengerd. Curt Springman grappled his way to the varsity wrestling squad to record another winning season. Jesse Yoder and Rick Baker joined the ranks of the boys baseball team and helped capture the rotating trophy. The girls' softball team suffered their first losing season, but Mary Beiler, a new team member seemed to make the season brighter. Rosie Wiley and Tracy Finzel filled in the two vacant spots on the varsity cheerleading squad. Members of the band spent many hours marching and Kim Fike, Cheryl Guthrie, and Charlotte Uphold devoted many hours to the band as members of the color guard. Julia Brenneman and Jesse Yoder were sent to the All-State Chorus to represent Northern. Kevin Bender, Elizabeth Hanft, and David Holler took part in the Early Graduation Program in order to graduate with the class of 1981. Carol Yommer moved up a step to graduate with our class.

Finally, as we looked back over the past two years, we realized that we had only one more year to fulfill our high school dreams. As we walked into the doors on August 31st, the memories of past Senior saying, "The time will fly by so fast," came rushing into our minds, and they were right. Fred Fox led the class of 1982 as President, with Spencer Schlosnagle as Vice-President, Rosie Wiley as Secretary and Debbie Wagner as Treasurer. Trudy Carpenter strutted as head majorette while Debbie Wagner led the varsity cheerleaders. Tracey Griffith and Karen Ross became co-leaders over the drill team. Ramona Yoder, escorted by Fred Fox, reigned over the annual Autumn Glory festivities while Debbie Selby, escorted by Lowell Yoder, stood by her side as maid-of-honor, and Rosie Wiley along with Stan Eggleston represented the Senior class as senior princess. Varsity football players were Stan Eggleston, Mike Robinson, and Bob Lipscomb, while George Belch, Merv Kamp, Dean Brinegar, Bob Lipscomb wrestled for the last time. Once again Fred Fox, Lowell Yoder, George Dailey, Mark Holtschneider, Stan Eggleston, and Tim Yunker played on the varsity basketball team. Donna Ringer was the only senior to play on the girls' basketball and softball teams. Representing the senior class on the baseball team were Tim Yunker and Fred Fox. Playing volleyball, seniors Donna Ringer and Vicki Kamp helped attain a winning record. Tracy Finzel, escorted by Danny Davis was crowned Homecoming Queen, and Debbie Wagner and Lowell Yoder looked over the Snowball Dance as King and Queen. Attending Boys State were Fred Fox, George Belch, and Tim Yunker. George Belch led the Student Council as President with the assistance of Spencer Schlosnagle as Vice-President. Heading the school publications, Fred Fox and Rosie Wiley acted as editors of the Viking, while Tammy Beachy and Sheera Brandes headed the North Star staff. Once again Jesse Yoder represented Northern at All-State Chorus. The excitement of the prom and graduation grew near as graduation caps and gowns arrived and dates were being made. the Junior class gave to us the prom with the theme: This One's For You and was held May 8th at the McHenry House. Rosie Wiley was crowned Prom Queen.

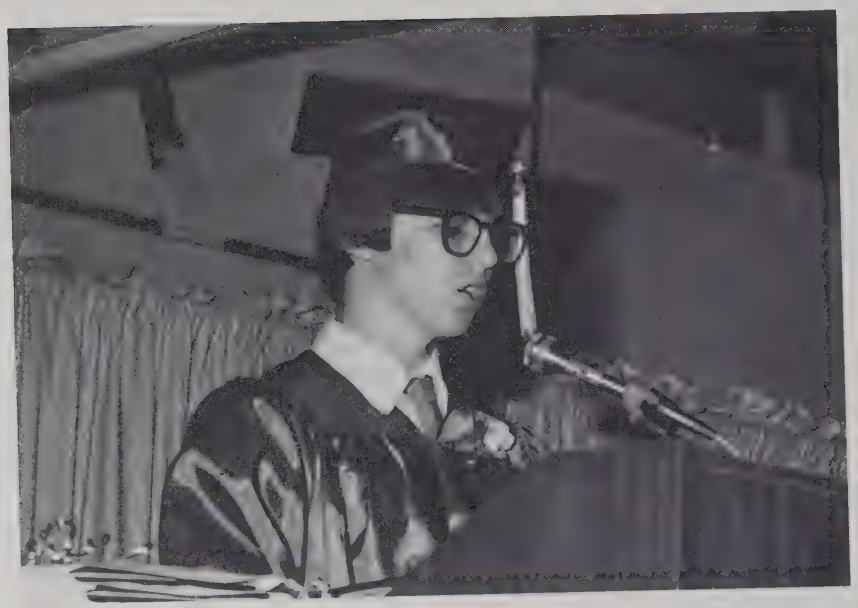
The days quickened as we saw the end of this phase of our lives near. Pre-prom and pre-graduation parties were held. We spent the day at Kings Dominion for our senior trip; one of the last even events where we would be together as a class.

Graduation on May 23rd was filled with emotions of sadness, gladness, and just not knowing what to expect. Tears were shed as we said our goodbyes, but each of had some future plans, whether it be college, marriage, or joining the working class.

The closeness we felt as we grew up together now became the knowledge that we must move. on. The memories that Northern has left us are the only paths to the past. Now we have a Future to look forward to. As we walk out these doors for the last time we cherish the friendships we have made, the fondness and laughter that has grown, and we hope that somehow, someway the memory of us will ring through the halls of Northern forever.

Graduation Poses Opportunities

Addressing the audience with his salutatory speech, Jesse Yoder speaks of many experiences throughout the school years.



Waiting with Mrs. Donetta Nice for entrance of the graduates, Mrs. Vonda Yunker has her camera ready to photograph her son, Tim Yunker.

Rev. Elmer Maust of the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church delivers the invocation at graduation.

Before the graduation ceremonies, Miss Joanna Miller instructs seniors Valerie Bittner, Cathy Murray and Ellen Hare on the correct way to wear their caps.

For Seniors

For the last time these friends will be together as seniors, Rita Sisler, Sharon Sisler, Charlotte Uphold and Renee Sisler pose for one last group photo.

After four years of high school, students look forward to going their seperate ways. The event that marks this occasion is graduation day. Long awaited, when it arrives, graduation presents conflicting emotions. Many seniors are divided between feelings of happiness and pride at their accomplishment, but at the same time they find it difficult to leave the friends they have made.

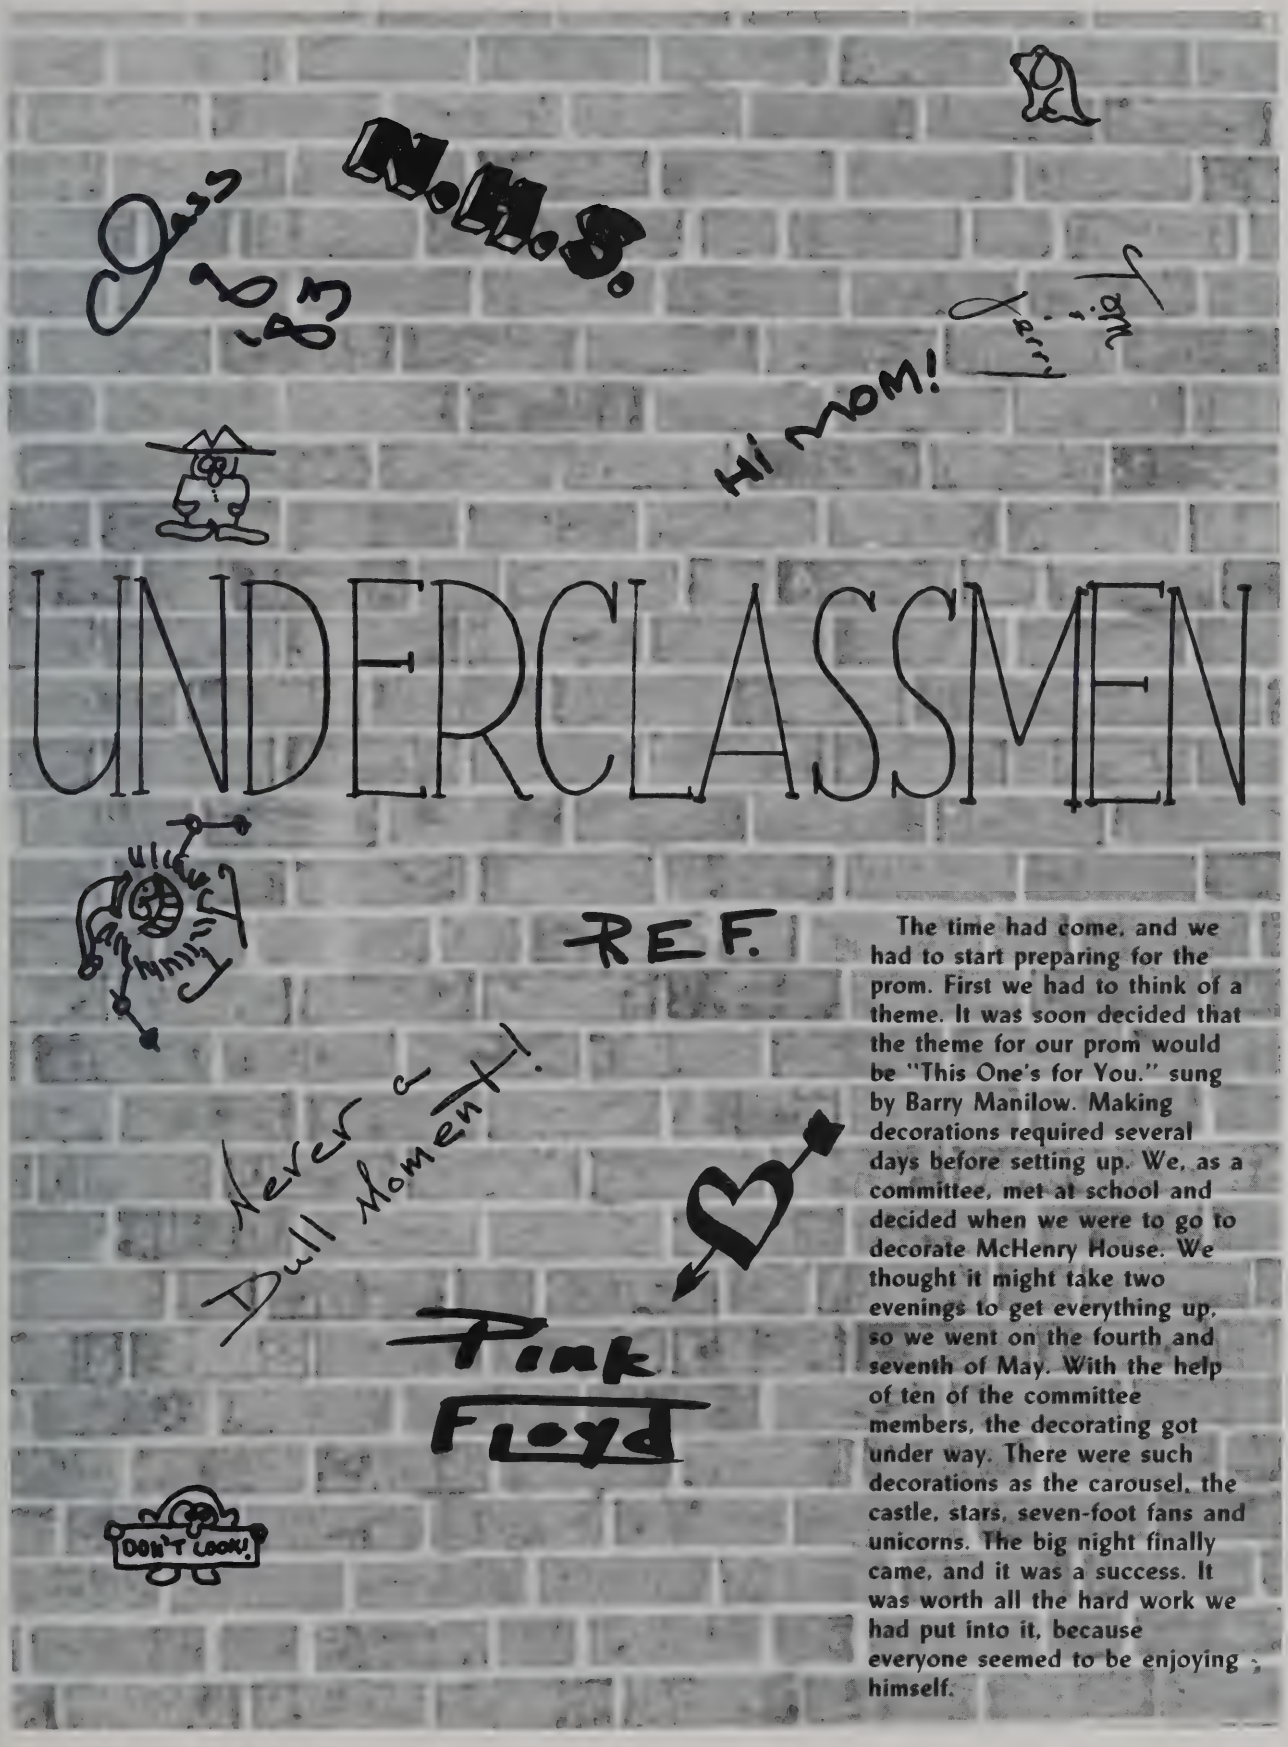
Making their last debut as part of the chorus, the seniors take part in singing "Graduation Day."

Twelve Seniors At Top Academically

Twelve students captured the positions of the top ten percent in the class: Don Warnick, Jesse Yoder, Fred Fox, George Dailey, Danny Davis, Mark Uphold, Karen Rexrode, Diane Bowser, Rosie Wiley, Ramona Yoder, Felicity Kaiser, and Sheera Brandes.

Anxiously awaiting the arrival of the buses to take them on the senior trip to Kings Dominion, Dwaine Platter, Joe Edgar, Steve Snyder, Jay Knox, Trudy Carpenter, and Debbie Selby.

Sitting in a lecture, Debbie Wagner participates in one of the seminars offered on Career Day.



The time had come, and we had to start preparing for the prom. First we had to think of a theme. It was soon decided that the theme for our prom would be "This One's for You." sung by Barry Manilow. Making decorations required several days before setting up. We, as a committee, met at school and decided when we were to go to decorate McHenry House. We thought it might take two evenings to get everything up, so we went on the fourth and seventh of May. With the help of ten of the committee members, the decorating got under way. There were such decorations as the carousel, the castle, stars, seven-foot fans and unicorns. The big night finally came, and it was a success. It was worth all the hard work we had put into it, because everyone seemed to be enjoying himself.

To improve typing skills, Sheila Wagner practices speed and accuracy.

With such courses as Typing, Introduction to Business, and Accounting available, juniors were able to choose the more commercial areas of study. In doing so, students who were preparing to find jobs in commercial settings hoped to find the business world more accessible and less confusing.

Woodworkers Jamie Spiker and Marvin Sines finish-sand a large chest.

Vocational training in a variety of concentrations provides students with a chance to explore many challenging and rewarding fields. The trade-oriented student can learn a great deal about his field of interest and has a chance to ply his craft in projects both in school and at home.

Students Mike Brenneman and Dave Platter apply their skills to the demanding job of small-engine repair.

Juniors Present Senior Prom

Lending their efforts to make the prom a reality are Patty Blocher and David Ward.

One of the main focuses of the Junior Class was making preparations for the Prom. Their concern and dedication was evident in the extent of their involvement with the project. Approximately $2,000 was raised by the Junior class to help pay for prom expenses.

Sharing the responsibilities for junior activities are Mrs. Donetta Nice, Mrs. Vonda Yunker and Mrs. Lucile Sines.

The class ring has been a reminder of one's alma mater as well as a token of affection. Giving and trading class rings has come to signify a special bond between boy and girl. Owing to the tradition of the class rings, schools contract with their manufacturers in order to provide the best selection and service available. Josten's is one such manufacturer. Class rings are expensive, as is all quality jewelry. Students can expect to pay between $78 and $175 for a Josten's ring. Some students, for various reasons, deal with other area jewelry stores, such as Kean's, Spear or Zales. But it is up to the student to decide which route to take in order to fulfill his own desires.

Representing Josten's, Steve Posey displays various styles and sizes of class rings for the Sophomore class to choose from.

Industrial Arts taught students the basic principles of working tools of the building trades. The ninth grade class provided hands-on experience in woodworking, and in using the hand tools and basic power equipment. The class also taught the basic principles of technical drawing.

An elective choosen by ninth graders serves an educational yet recreational purpose. The class offers such benefits as baking crepes and having a dress up day. Because of the usefullness in knowing foreign language, many ninth graders are taking it.

Taking her time, Karen Fink concentrates on passing her French test.

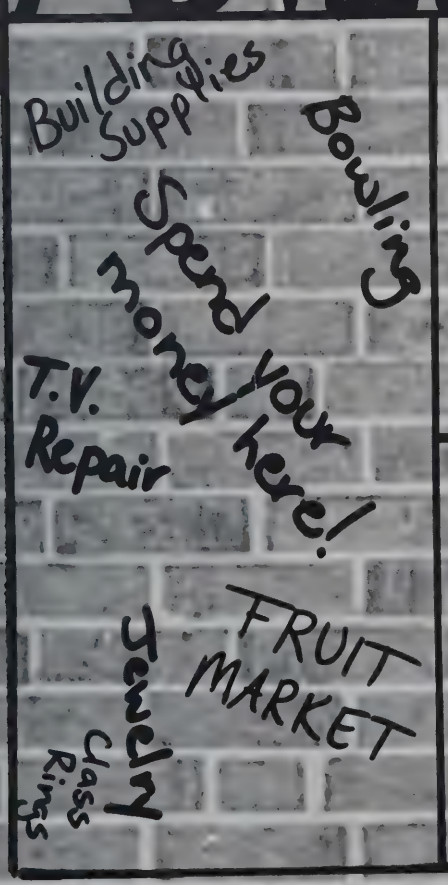
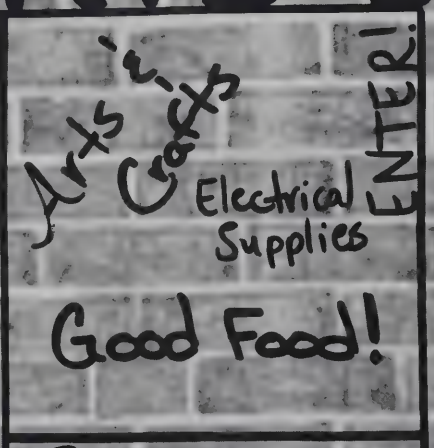
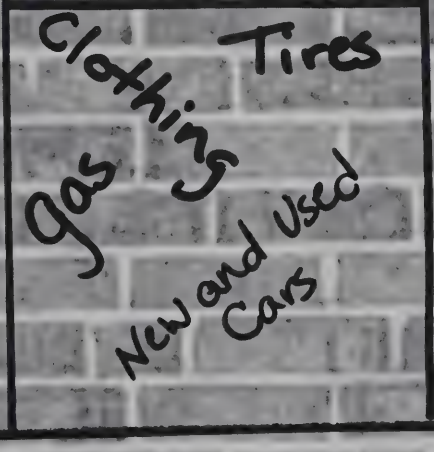
ADVERTISEMENTS







Lying in bed after the shrill sound of the alarm, I debate whether to fake a sore throat or roll out of bed and stumble through a day of classes. Musing over the day's activities it finally dawns on me that today I'll sell yearbook ads. With this thought the day seems much brighter, and I spring from bed looking forward to the day. Preparing for school becomes a much easier task. With a smile on my face I enter the doors at school. Starting the excursion, my partner and I head to Grantsville. Finding our first endeavor successful, we press to fill the too short hours with too many stops. Dashing our high hopes, we find peddling ads more difficult than we imagined. Some businesses just didn't have the money for ads. After breaking for lunch, we went back to selling ads, hoping our luck would change. Sales picked up again, and we headed back to school, an overall successful day behind us.

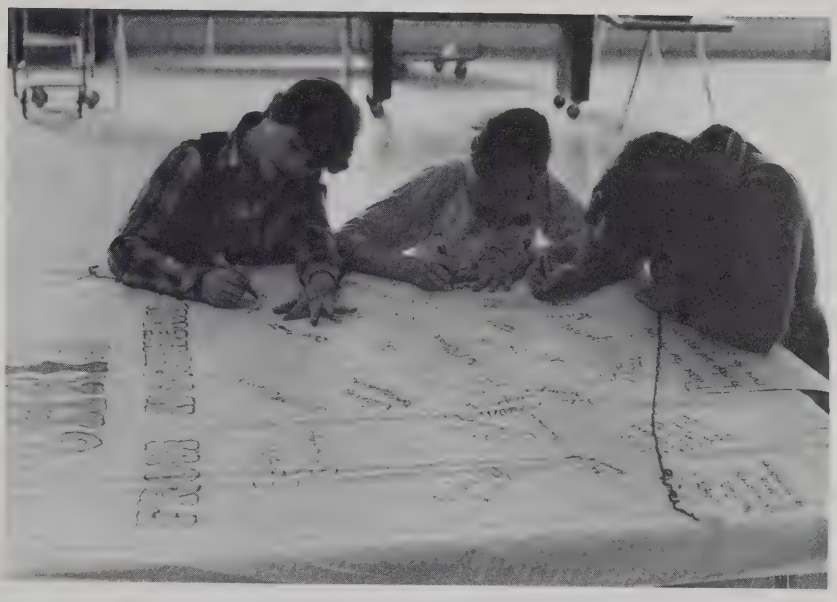
Year Long Effort Recognized In Sports

Delivering the pitch, Steve Zumpano anticipates a strike.

Signing a paper for Chris Schwing while he is in the hospital, Diane Hetrick, Libby McCrobie, and Barb Taylor add their names to the page.



Recognizing the hard work and dedication of Christy Fratz, Bev Miller, Linda Yunker, and Carol Wilt as they letter in three girls' sports.

With the end of school, comes the tendency for students to lose interest in their school work and activities as they think of summer freedom and vacation. Softball and baseball claimed the attention of the girls and boys up until the end of the year. School publications, again, needed the finishing touches put on them. Students continued to give their time right up to the last day.

End Of School

Accepting an award from Mr. Harold Loughrie at the FFA banquet, Rick Thomas looks pleased.

Delivering her speech, Marcie Upole hopes to secure a position on the Student Council as secretary.

Jubilant after putting the castle together, Junior class Vice- President Linda Yunker prepares for the Prom as her mother insepcts the decorating.

Activities Prove Rewarding

Receiving her diploma from Mr. Herbert Harman, Roxane Zuckerman accepts it with pride.

Caught up in the whirl of the end of the year activities, students found themselves even more active to create memorable endings. Banquets for the FFA club, Chorus and Band, and the athletes, closed the year on an evening of sharing and rewarding of the participants efforts. Student Council officer elections for the coming year were held. Prom night was a swirling dance of preparation. Graduation came with excitement for the seniors and pride for the parents.

Prom candidates and their escorts, Dave Ward and Glenda Lininger, Bob McKenzie and Donna Ringer, Dan Ganoe and Rosie Wiley, Fred Fox, and Kim Wilburn, and George Dailey and Lisa Moore, anxiously await the Queen to be announced.
